SEAWALL PROJECT — Construction of a 1900-foot long seawall fronting the Mussel Rock garbage dump in Daly City has been accelerated. The wall, costing some $105,000, is made up of huge six to ten-ton boulders.

'Cease, Desist' Order

Garbage Dump In D.C. Continues To Operate

A cease and desist order issued by the Regional Water Quality Control Board concerning the Daly City garbage dump last week will have no bearing on continued operations of the dump site, The Post learned today.

Actually, the order was a rehash of an order issued some three years ago when the dump was plagued by drainage problems and was allegedly polluting the shoreline in the Mussel Rock area.

The drain was completed through the dump three years ago, however, wave action along the dump front threatened to continue undermining a section of the site that had not been in use for more than ten years.

The Board ordered dumping to halt until agreement on construction of a seawall could be reached. They wanted a re-inforced concrete wall constructed, but Daly City said costs of the project would top $500,000 and the city could not afford it.

Nor could they afford to close the dump for any length of time.

In 1965, the Board handed down prescribed requirements for operation of the dump and construction of a seawall.

A slide hit the area in 1967 and construction of the wall was accelerated, according to City Mgr. Dave Rowe.

Instead, the city agreed to place huge 6-10-ton boulders along the shoreline and the Board approved the project providing it could be completed by 1973.

A precise plan for fronting the dump with the rocks, quarried in Pacifica by the B. Fontana Company and hauled to the site by Daly City scavenger trucks, was laid out.

Last week's "cease and desist" order was a re-schedule of the previous plan, Rowe explained, after returning from a

Bids In S.S.F.

Clay Avenue Park Plan Is Approved

By BOB PETERSON

Bids were called for as South San Francisco councilmen Monday night approved the master plan for long-range development of Clay Avenue Park in the West Winston Manor section of the city.

Funds budgeted for this purpose totaled $32,500. However, according to estimates of Ribera and Sue Landscape Architects, cost of constructing the park is estimated to reach $61,320.

At first the councilmen were going to do only the work that could be done for the budgeted amount. It meant either doing planting and leaving out play apparatus, or holding back on the beautification and putting in the play apparatus.

Rather than make such a decision, Mayor Frank Bertucelli polled the councilmen and they decided to go out for bid on the entire project.

City Atty. John Noonan said it would be possible to use city beautification funds if necessary. But City Mgr. Tom McKenzie assured the councilmen that something could be worked out.

Alan Ribera of the architectural firm said there was a need for a bona fide total plan for the park because of the necessity of obtaining approval of the State Division of Highways.

Ribera submitted a three-page cost estimate to the councilmen during the 4:30 p.m. pre-council session.

An Airport Transit Role By County Recommended

In a joint recommendation to be submitted to the Board of Supervisors County Manager M. D. Tarshes and County Engineer Don S. Wilson urge that the county participate as a full partner" in the planning an extension of the Bay Area Rapid Transit District (BARTD) line from Daly City to International Airport.

However, because one city — Millbrae does not share that view, the county officials recommend that a public hearing be scheduled by the board before action is taken to commit the county to the program.

San Mateo County has been asked to join San Francisco and the BART district in the study, the estimated cost of which is $557,000. The study would be a "refinement" of the work done by the former West Bay Rapid Transit Authority, which passed out of existence after the voters turned down its plan for a bus transit system. The West Bay agency visualized the Daly City-Airport link as a future phase of its over-all program.

Tarshes and Wilson said that two-thirds of the cost of the study would probably be paid with federal funds and that the local share might be reduced if credit is given for engineering work done in the West Bay study.

In sounding out the cities that would be involved, the county determined that Daly City, San Bruno and South San Francisco favored the joint study, with certain conditions and recommendations, while Millbrae opposed it.

Tarshes and Wilson said Millbrae's opposition "would preclude the county's participating in the joint powers agreement as presently proposed."

"We believe it is important that the county participate as a

BATTLE OVER TAXES

Lycett, Ryan Gap Is Widened

By FRANK LaPIERRE

A bitter exchange of letters has widened the relations gap between Assemblyman Leo J. Ryan and Daly City mayor Bernard (Bud) Lycett concerning spiraling taxes on the home front.

Lycett, after hearing of a case involving an elderly lady who was experiencing difficulty in paying her increased home tax, dashed off a letter to Ryan asking if something might be done by his offices to shift the tax burden off senior citizens.

His letter pointed out that local senior citizens are tired of talk and want action.

Lycett's letter apparently struck a nerve and Ryan quickly replied — in a subsequent letter — that it wasn't the State, rather the school districts, Daly City itself and the county that are to blame for the increased taxes.

Ryan labeled Lycett's letter "a political attack" and wondered why similar questions had not been directed at State Senator Richard Dolwig.

"I will do whatever I can as an individual here in Sacramento to push for tax reform," Ryan informed Lycett.

But he hoped Lycett would be as diligent in pursuing the same questions with the local school district, county officials and "your own city council which actually sets the tax rates."

The woman that had brought the problem to the Daly City Council in the first place was Mrs. Ann Drury, of 1178 Brunswick Street.

Ryan suggested she interrogated "the four governmental jurisdictions who have the most to do with setting property taxes."

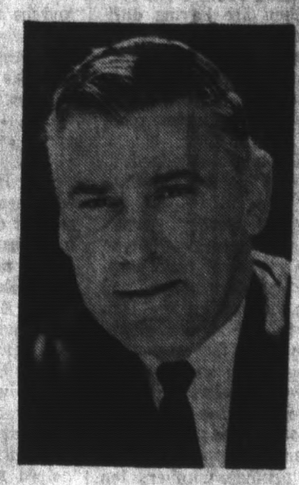
According to Ryan, the four local agencies are responsible for determining more than 90 per cent of the total tax picture.

"Even though (Mayor Lycett) chooses to assign, rather arbitrarily, all the problems to me, I feel that his decision to do so is somewhat inaccurate," Ryan informed Mrs. Drury.

Lycett's response was instantaneous and explosive.

BERNARD LYCETT

"I keep hammering at you as far as our property taxes are concerned because, as I told you before, I consider it (tax increases) the doings of the state legislature," Lycett responded to the former schoolteacher.



LEO J. RYAN

As far as Ryan's analysis of Daly City's tax problems are concerned, Lycett accused Ryan of "being so far off base that it becomes ludicrous."

The fiery mayor reminded Ryan of his voting record on is-

BARTD Site Parking Lot Is An Issue

Parking at the Daly City Rapid Transit station may determine the success or failure of the outer Mission line of the Bay Area Rapid Transit District.

City officials feel that the proposed 694 parking stalls at the terminus station in Daly City are completely inadequate, but BARTD is standing pat and refues to commit itself to any expanded facility at this time.

BARTD used their now-famous two words—"no funds" — in rejecting Daly City's latest appeal for additional parking.

Actually, the city isn't all that interested in filling up BARTD trains, the motive for their insisting on more parking stalls is simple: Persons unable to park at the BARTD station will spill out and park on residential streets in the area while riding the trains.

Talks last week between BARTD and city officials in San Francisco produced little results.

The transit board threw another of their time-worn chestnuts at Daly City by likewise informing them that they could have all the paking they desired — if they paid for it themselves.

"The better they make it (the parking), the better they will make the system. Afterall, isn't that what they are trying to do" Mayor Bernard (Bud) Lycett asked at a study session Monday night.

The transit district has al-

MURDER TRIAL

Pacifica Teeners Describe Encounter With Escapees

By VIRGIL WILSON

Two 16-year-old Pacifica girls Monday told of an encounter with jail escapees Carlos Lopez and Clarence Galindo last June 19 — the day before the men allegedly smashed their way into a Pacifica home and committed murder.

Jill Chew and Susan Nevius, students at Terra Nova High School, were among nine witnesses called by Deputy Dist. Atty. James L. Browning Monday as testimony started in the trial of Lopez before a jury of eight men and four women in the courtroom of Superior Court Judge Allison M. Rouse.

Lopez, 25, is being tried on four counts: The murder of 92-year-old Christian Pederson; aggravated assault against Christian's wife, May, 74; burglary of the Pedersen home at 165 Winona Avenue, and robbery of the couple.

The defendants have been granted separate trials. Galindo, 19, is scheduled to go on trial in another courtroom next Monday.

In his opening statement to the jury, Browning said he would show that Lopez "either personally killed Christian Pedersen with malice aforethought or aiden and abetted Clarence James Galindo with malice aforethought." He identified the murder weapon as a pair of heavy metal shears with which, he said, both of the victims were beaten.

Defense Atty. George P. Eshoo reserved his opening statement until after the state's case has been completed.

Jill Chew told the jury that she and Susan Nevius were at the Vallemar School near the home on the afternoon of June 19 when they were approached by two men wearing tattered coveralls. Miss Chew said she and her friend were unaware that four men had broken out of the San Francisco County Jail near San Bruno two miles to the east two days earlier.

Lopez did most of the talking, Miss Chew said, while Galindo stood in the background, doubled up and holding his stomach as though he were sick. As they

It's Entertaining Therapy

MISS BENICE KOOL, former legal secretary, now teacher of educationally and emotionally handicapped children at Daly City's Franklin Roosevelt School, directs four of ten members of "Barber of Seville" cast, which will perform December 16, for both entertainment and therapy. Left to right, the students are Delaney Huff (Figaro), Kevin Tamlin (the count), Cathy Williamson (Rosina) and Paul Spinetti (Basilio). (Post Photo)

An Unusual Approach

Play By Educationally Handicapped

By WILL E. THOMAS

An unusual example of therapy for the educationally handicapped is in progress at Franklin D. Roosevelt School in Daly City, where nine boys are rehearsing for their upcoming comedy version of "Barber of Seville."

The production and the therapy are under the direction and guidance of teacher Benice Kooll, who hopes to extract entertainment as well as problem-improvement from the youngsters.

"These children are at average or above average mental ability who are peforming significantly below grade level," Miss Kooll points out, and they enter the program at FDR with a "variety of learning and-or emotional problems."

Problems in the areas of reading, writing, language, visual and auditory perception, and physical handicaps are included in Miss Kooll's daily classes in the Jefferson Elementary School District.

Having balance, jumping rope and throwing a ball can be a trying problem for some of them: They're not physically crippled, Miss Kooll adds, their reflexes just are slower.

"They are not mentally retarded," she emphasizes. "They are children who can't be integrated back into their regular class program. The purpose of this program is to help them in those areas where they are having difficulty, so that they can return to a regular school program."

It's a "remedial-type program" then.

How does the "Barber of Seville" fit in?

Miss Kooll acknowledged the play to be a "chore," putting it thus:

"They are usually hyperactive and hyperkinetic-type children, so that to concentrate on one skill for a period of time, practicing for instance, would be a great chore. But they have the motivation of being in a program and doing well creatively. It has somehow encouraged them to try to control this problem"

The cast of Barber of Seville in this instance numbers ten. Since there are only nine 10 to 12-year-old boys in the class, they had to go elsewhere to fill the part of Rosina.

Third grader Cathy Williamson has the role.

Each of the boys seemed to slip nicely into the challenging roles, according to Miss Kooll.

She says the youngsters are "excited" about their December 16 (1:30 p.m.) performance before the public, the students "and the principal."

And she's excited, too, she says, because she believes the effort has enhanced the individual—which is the crux of the over-all educationally handicapped program.

"Not only are reading and writing important parts of development, but the creative aspects of our lives, like drama, music and poetry, are essential to the development of the whole being," she relates.

Miss Kooll recalls that the boys have had some difficulty with "group interaction" and through the play "are able to learn to work together, to build together and to develop something that is positive."

With it, she says, they are "helped to learn and want to learn more. This is encouraging them to somehow tackle those areas which in the past created tremendous difficulties."

Sometime by the time the term is out, most of the youngsters might be ready to fit back into their regular grade-level classes.

Indeed, as the term progresses and the youngster himself improves, he spends more time in the regular classroom and less time in Miss Kooll's remedial program.

They are youngsters, she explains, who have not been able to keep up; whose remedial skills are insufficient to sustain them at proper grade-level. The aim of the program is improvement of the skills.

So is Barber of Seville, which has had the assistance of Miss Kooll's teacher aide, Clara Johnson, who is assembling props and costumes, and the school's P-TA, Principal Jess Parks, faculty members and custodians.

"The boys have experienced failure," in previous classes, and her function is to deal with each individual's needs "on a one-to-one basis," Miss Kooll says.

She gets "a chance to work in the area of the child's needs. Each child comes in with a different learning and-or emotional program, she explains.

Barber of Seville — "the creative aspect" of his education in the Kooll class — is seen as one tool in countering the problem causing the educationally handicapped FDR student to fall behind.

ready applied to the federal government for funds to expand parking at the station under provisions that make funding for parking available if adjacent to landscaped freeways.

Daly City's terminus is adjacent to the new Junipero Serra Freeway.

But the city wants to pin BARTD down harder.

They do not want "ifs." Rather Mayor Lycett wants the district to commit now any funds they might receive for parking to be directed at Daly City first.

If the district goes along with Daly City, some directors expressed the feeling that other stations within the district (Daly City is located in an "outside" area)) may complain.

Meanwhile, two other requests made by Daly City to the district were flatly rejected.

The city explored the possibility of BARTD building an overpass on Knowles to prevent any traffic backup and also wanted BARTD to denounce any plans for participation in an extension down the Peninsula without the express approval of Daly City.

sues concerning property taxes, such as AB 272 which would have taken the lid off property taxes and allowed various school districts to set their own rate.

"During this past year one (of the issues voted on) was the pension for the safety services. Does that ring a bell with you? That (service) would have been paid from property taxes.

"Once again you attempt to throw the burden to the local taxing agencies without explaining how the legislature has shifted the tax burden from the state level to these local levels, which had more to do with raising these property taxes than the increase of the local agencies," Lycett hit back.

In conclusion Lycett suggested to Ryan that in the future "when you question my decision as being inaccurate I suggest that you analyze your own decisions first."

Observers felt it was doubtful that with an election year facing him, Ryan will let the matter hang without reply.

Transit Role By County Is Suggested

full partner in the planning of a facility that has such a potential for future effect on the area as we believe a BART extension to the airport would have," the officials said. "However, because of the obvious differences of opinion expressed by the cities, we believe you should schedule this matter for public hearing at some appropriate time in the near future, at which time all facets of the proposal may be considered and a course of action for the county can be determined."

Donation For D.C. Parks Is Presented

The Gellert Foundation, founded by Serramonte developers Carl and Fred Gellert of San Francisco, have donated another $10,000 to Daly City for use by the Department of Parks and Recreation.

This brings the total funds contributed to the city since 1965 to $65,000.

None of the money has ever been used for recreational purposes within the Serramonte area, according to city officials.

Rather the monies are spread throughout the parks and recreational facilities in other sections of Daly City.

The Gellerts, in making their donations through the foundation, stipulate that "these funds be used . . . for all the residents of the city of Daly City."

Mayor Bernard (Bud) Lycett in accepting the fund noted the Gellerts have never asked that the monies be spent within the Serramonte area.

Bruno Planners Approve Height Variances, Permits

The San Bruno Planning Commission Monday unanimously approved a height variance for two buildings to be constructed by the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. here.

The planners also granted a use permit to San Bruno Speedo Electric Co. for speedometer and electrical automobile repairs at the corner of Third and San Bruno avenues.

A spokesman for the telphone company said that eventual plans call for the new building to be a six-story reinforced concrete structure, 100 feet high. The variance approved last night was only for 51 and 65-foot buildings. The reason is, the phone company plans to build in stages, the spokesman said.

The use permit for Speedo Electric Company was granted with the condition that no auto body or motor repairs be performed; that the business hours be 8 a.m. to 6 p.m., and no work be done on Sunday; that the landscape be maintained; and that if any alteration in the landscape be made, it meet with the Planning Commission's approval.

In other business, Planning Commission Chairman Robert S. Tonnessen called for the planners to recommend the annexation of land south to San Felipe Avenue to the city council, but deferred his request when told that the planners would have to recommend the land annexation to council later anyway.

Damage Suit In D.C. Injury

A $100,000 damage suit was filed in Superior Court in Redwood City Monday on behalf of a San Francisco man who was struck on the head with a beer bottle during a wrestling match at the Cow Palace.

The suit declares that the plaintiff, Gene C. Martinez, sustained permanent brain damage.

Named defendants were the State of California, which owns the Cow Palace, and wrestling promoter Roy Shire.

The suit alleges that the defendants allowed a dangerous and unsafe condition to exist by permitting beer to be bought in bottles and carried to the arena seats. The defendants, the complaint states, "knew, or should have known, that because defendants intended, among other things, to excite their customers, there was a great likelihood of bottles being thrown and customers being injured during emotional moments in the wrestling matches."

Martinez was struck, according to the suit, on July 12 of this year while occupying a $4.50 ringside seat during a program billed as the "United States Wrestling Championship."

The blow, the suit states, caused "damage to plaintiff's perception and mental reactions, a change and deterioriation in his personality, and impairent of his sense of balance."

Small Time Swindlers Are Coming To Town

The Daly City Police Department assisted in the composition of the following Yuletide melody (sung to the tune of "Santa's Coming to Town.")

"You better watch out,
"You better not buy,
"You certainly will cry,
"I'll tell you all why,
"Phony peddlars are flocking to town."

Detective Roger Austin today warned residents that this year may produce a bumper crop of small-time swindlers and anyone confronted with suspicious peddlars should immediately contact police.

In recent days, a Negro male adult, about 35 years old, has been sweeping through the city claiming to represent the Bayview Youth Counseling Center of 1163 Eighteenth Street in San Francisco.

The suspect passes out flyers asking that funds be donated so that underprivileged children may be sent to camp.

Austin said there is no such organization and those persons contacted by this man — described as stocky and of medium height — are asked to call police.

The suspect normally contacts businesses operating in the city, but may branch out to private homes, police said.

If a person is reluctant to hand over money immediately, the man informs them they may send their contributions to 127 Naples Avenue, San Francisco.

Times Awards $250 In Cash In 'Lucky License' Event

A total of $250 in cash prizes were awarded by The Times newspaper last week in the popular "Lucky License" bumper-strip contest.

Winners were: Robert Barcklay and Herbert Mudd, San Mateo, $75 each; and Sally Jonsson, Redwood City, and Philip Burkland, Belmont, $50 each.

They became eligible for prizes by affixing "Lucky License" bumper strips to their vehicles and spotting their license plates published in The Times. Each day the mystery photographer roams San Mateo County in search of cars bearing the Lucky License bumper strips.

Daily prize is $25 plus a $25 bonus for The Times subscribers. A grand prize of $500 will be offered at the conclusion of the contest, with the winner being selected from the daily cash recipients.

Anyone can play Lucky License. Free bumper strips are available at all Times offices—San Mateo, Burlingame, Redwood City and Daly City. Complete contest rules appear each day in The Times.

New Anchors Are Placed

AERIAL VIEW of the operation is seen from one of the helicopters used to shuttle men and supplies to barges laying the new anchors in place off the coast. (Post Photo by Robert Burton)

Outflow Line Is Finished

By FRANK LA PIERRE

Heavy seas and gusty winds failed to deter completion last week of a $100,000 improvement project on the North San Mateo County Sanitation District outflow line that carries treated sewage a half-mile off the coast.

Divers from the National Divers Company of Santa Barbara spent several hours Monday on the ocean floor off Thornton Beach attaching concrete anchors to the three-foot diameter outflow line.

Each of the 18 anchors laid weighs some 45 tons and were lowered into place from a pair of huge ocean barges operated by the Healey-Tibbets company, low bidder on the project.

The final day of the week-long venture was hazardous to the diving teams and crane operators because of the heavy seas pounding the coast.

Dirt swirled up by the swells made the ocean floor murky for the divers and the bobbing barges made lowering the anchors into position almost impossible.

The line lies in some 40 feet of water and the undertow along that section of beach is powerful.

Constructed six years ago at a cost of some $400,000 ($100,000 from the Federal government) the outflow line was originally anchored with concrete blocks.

But the ocean currents pounded the blocks and threatened to tear the line away. Officials of the Sanitation District decided some three years ago to let a new contract for improving the line.

The first anchors were fired into the ocean floor using a 37mm cannon shell, but due to the same severe currents these anchors were likewise found to be insufficient.

It was decided to use the heavier anchors and casting began at the Healey-Tibbetts Company in South San Francisco some six weeks ago.

The huge anchors were loaded on barges and floated out the Golden Gate to the outflow line.

Sanitation engineer-manager Robert Bernicchi predicted the anchors "will last another 10-15 years."

IS PROMOTED

FAIRFIELD — Eric W. Nunez, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar C. Nunez of 323 Sixth Lane, South San Francisco, has been promoted to airman first class in the U.S. Air Force.

Airman Nunez is an aircraft mechanic at Travis AFB. He is assigned to the 601st Organizational Maintenance Squadron, a unit of the Military Airlift Command which provides global airlift for U.S. military forces.

The airman is a 1968 graduate of Jefferson Union High School, Daly City, Calif.

Another Plea Made On Daly City 'Busing Problem'

Robert Kurtz made yet another plea to the Daly City Jefferson Elementary School District trustees to do something about a busing problem which he considers detrimental to his children's education.

Kurtz, of 62 Mayfield Way, has been unsuccessful in getting the board to either change schedules or allocate money toward purchase of additional buses.

At the November 25 meeting, Kurtz challenged the report presented by Supt. Frank Greenwood at the November 12 meeting that no educational hardships existed.

The report was a consensus of the principals of the F. D. Roosevelt, John F. Kennedy and Abraham Lincoln (where the Kurtz children attend) schools. The principals, in turn, were to have consulted with the teachers of their schools as to whether there are educational hardships involved.

"Two teachers have definitely stated to me that there is an educational hardship as a result of the time schedule," said Kurtz.

The concerned parent asked for an investigation of the three schools with detailed reports by the principals of teacher reaction to the problem.

"If any teachers feel there's an educational hardship, the board and the public should be appraised of this fact," said Kurtz.

A second request for board action by Kurtz was that the trustees bring back two buses to the elementary district that have been leased to the Jefferson High School District for their use.

Saying at an earlier meeting that he may take his problem to the attorney general, Kurtz Tuesday night read into the record a letter he had received from the county's assistant district attorney.

Kurtz said he had an hour-and-a-half conversation with the assistant district attorney regarding the leasing of the two buses by the high school district.

"I'm reading this into the record because I feel it should be read into the record," said Kurtz.

The letter said in essence that there is no evidence of improper action on the part of the board in leasing the two buses to the high school district. Also that the board has in no way gone outside or beyond its authority.

One section of the letter stated that citizens have the "right to make known your wishes and feelings."

Assuring the board members that his interest is genuine, Kurtz said, "I will see what the board will do now. I will be patient. This has been a frustrating experience."

Colma Asked To Reconsider

Against the advice of County Engineer Don S. Wilson, the County Board of Supervisors November 25 asked Colma to reconsider its refusal to allow the county to undertake major improvements on Hillside Boulevard.

Wilson recommended that the project, which includes plans for extension of Hickey Boulevard betwee Hillside and El Camino Real across Holy Cross Cemetery property, be dropped and that the money be applied to other highway projects.

Chairman Robert S. Clair counseled patience, however, and suggested that the board take the Colma Town Council to lunch and talk it over.

Wilson argued against that course of action and urged the board to "take a stand." He warned that the county might be getting itself into a situation similar to the Westborough Boulevard controversy which stretched out for years before the county and South San Francisco settled their differences.

The board, however, asked County Manager M. D. Tarshes to arrange the luncheon meeting.

Wilson explained at the outset of the discussion that funds for the road projects were budgeted because they are considered important parts of the city-county road network and because Colma does not have much road construction money. The planning went smoothly, he reported, until finally the Town Council refused the county's request to declare Hillside Boulevard a county highway so that the money could be legally spent. It was understood that the council was mainly concerned about possible adverse effects the project might have on property owners along the route.

"In effect," Wilson told the board, "they are telling us they don't want a million dollars of county money spent in their city for a road we think is needed.

Wilsons' recommendations, which were taken under advisement pending the meeting with Colma councilmen, were that all planning work be discontinued; that, unless the councilmen change their minds, the money be rebudgeted for other work, and that the county drop its eminent domain suit to acquire the 17-acre Spirea hog ranch property. The

San Bruno Votes Library Helper

To defray the cost of extra help necessary as a result of increased services given to Junior College students, the San Bruno councilmen have added $500 to the city library's salary and wage classification.

The money will be used to hire a student or some other person to work at the library from noon 'til 3 p.m. three days a week. The supplemental appropriation covers the period through June of 1970.

"Although it costs us money, it's a compliment in a way," said Councilman Maurice Hamilton, "that the college students feel our library is well enough equipped for their use."

The councilmen Monday night also:

Agreed to pay Hahn Wise and Associates $300 for updating of the city's master plan.

Upped the price of service deposits from $10 to $20, effective January 1. The deposits on water, garbage and sewer charges had become a source of lost revenue for the city, particularly from transient apartment dwellers.

Referred to the 1970-71 budget session a report from the state retirement system on added benefits sought by police and fire department personnel.

Hired the Nolte-Hammond firm for engineering services on the Cherry Avenue assessment district.

Canned Food Drive Planned At Playgrounds

Under the direction of the Daly City Recreation Department, each city-operated playground will conduct a canned food drive between December 5 and 17.

Members of the community are requested to donate items of canned or packaged food which will help to make Christmas a little brighter for over 100 families, director Chuck Vincent said.

Children representing the playgrounds will display badges identifying them as "Helpers."

Portola Club Sets Bazaar And Art Show

The Portola Art and Craft Club is having an art show and boutique bazaar on Saturday at the Portola Highlands Shopping Center, Skyline and Monterey Drive in San Bruno.

The sale will be from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Mrs. Claudia Estrada and Mrs. Angie Pollicita report there will be for sale paintings, jewelry, aprons, vests, purses, and Christmas gifts and table decorations.

Proceeds will be used to send Christmas packages to Vietnam.

Testimonial For Postmen In Daly City

A testimonial dinner was held at Val's Redwood Room on November 8 honoring five employes who have retired from the Daly City Post Office.

Postmaster Vincent P. Murphy presented service recognition certificates to Supt. John Mahoney and clerk Don Fisher of the Westlake office, Supt. Edmund F. Pryal of Vista Grande Station, and finance Supt. Louis Pagano and carrier Robert Rivera from the main post office.

The five employes had performed a total of 155 years of service in the postal service.

Family Chanukah Program Planned At Brotherhood

A family Chanukah program will be offered at Brotherhood Way Jewish Community Center, December 7 from 4 to 6 p.m.

All members of the community are invited to attend the program, which will include activities for the entire family, from pre-schoolser to senior adults.

Highlighting the program will be workshops in holiday cooking, crafts, singing, dancing, and special discussion groups.

Traditional latkes will be served with the box supper which families are asked to bring. The registration fee for the program is $1.50 a family and includes latkes, dessert and soft drinks.

FAMILY FORUM

We Celebrate Advent

The season of Advent has special meaning to all Christians. It is a time of expectancy as we prepare to observe the birth of Jesus of Nazareth. Celebration describes the spirit of our worship during Advent. We celebrate because God is for us and He is present in the world today. We celebrate because Jesus is the Christ and in Him God is reconciling the world to Himself. Join us as we celebrate.

Wesley Church Readies Annual Tea And Bazaar

The seventh annual holiday tea and bazaar of the Wesley United Methodist Church of Daly City, 1474 Southgate Avenue, will be presented Saturday at 11:30 a.m.

A special program will begin at 1 p.m., with tea and homemade pastries being served.

Appearing on the program will be "The Great Mac" — Cecil McFarland — a talented magician. McFarland is a former Navy chaplain who has entertained troops around the world.

Holiday music will be provided by a vocal unit from the Treble Tones, a choral group of women from the Bay Area, along with piano fare of Cathie Leech.

The tea will pay for the cost of the material to paint the church which the following men are doing: Newton Anderson, James Booher Jack Brickley, Paul Campion, Robert Church, son Bob Church, Louis Giusti, John Hubbard Rupert Medina, Roger Murray, Robert O'Connoer, Max Pena, Earl Sanders, Edward Thomas, Cecil McFarland, Fred Anderson, and the Rev. New Officers Selected By Mom's Unit

The new officers of Mothers of All Faiths for 1970 are Mrs. William D'Atri of San Bruno, president; Mrs. Robert Palacio of South San Francisco, vice president; Mrs. Robert Britt of San Bruno, secretary; Mrs. Donald Ray of Daly City, treasurer; Mrs. Richard Delucchi of San Bruno, publicity-chaplain; Mrs. Paul Jensen, of San Bruno, sergeant-at-arms; donations chairman, Mrs. Raul Rodriquez of Pacifica; and fashion show chairman, Mrs. Kenn Edwards of Millbrae.

A Boutique Auction was held on November 19, at the home of Mrs. Stanton Lee of Daly City. All of the items auctioned were made by members of the Club and were predominantly for Christmas.

Plans are underway for the Club's Children's Christmas Party on December 14. This will be held at Portola School in San Bruno. Santa Claus will be there to hand out presents and Koo Koo the Klown will also be there to entertain the children.

Also coming up for the month of December is the Club's annual Christmas party for Ward 200B at Laguna Honda Home. Some of the proceeds from the Fashion Show go for the purchase of gifts, decorations, and refreshments for these women.

Most of the proceeds from the Club's money making projects go towards supporting their Brazilian Foster Child, Reginaldo De Jesus, nine years old. Some of the proceeds are also used to brighten the life of an invalid woman, Norene Juslin of San Francisco, who was stricken with polio.

KURT RUSS of Daly City is shown in the role of Mr. O'Malley, a fairy godfather with pink wings as he conjures up some fantastic events in his black bag of tricks in "Barnaby," Pacifica's Spindrift Players' production this weekend. Looking on is Marc Serrecchia in the title role, Bobby Rigling as Gorogon, a talking dog; Sherry Cleary as Jane, and Virginia Johnson as Launcelot McSnoyd, a pixie from Brooklin. Standing with Russ is another of his creations: Gus the Ghost, portrayed by Daly City resident, Gary Nelson.

Curtain Time For 'Barnaby'

It is curtain time again for the Pacifica Spindrift Players and this Saturday marks the second event of the current season with the presentation of "Barnaby," a fantasy for children of all ages.

Beginning Saturday with a 2:30 p.m. matinee and again at 8 p.m. (note difference in normal curtain time; change made from 8:30 to 8 p.m. for evening performances to accommodate youngsters), the famous Crockett Johnson comic strip will come to life in play form in a vehicle by Robert and Lillian Masters.

It will continue for a total of six performances on both Saturdays (at 2:30 p.m. and 8 p.m.) and Sundays (at 2:30 p.m.) for two weekends.

This is the second year that the local community theatre group will present a holiday children's production. To be seen in the title role of Barnaby will be newcomer to the stage, Marc Serrecchia.

This is his story and involves Barnaby's wild imagination which conjures up a whimsical fairy godfather named Mr. O'Malley played by Kurt Russ of Daly City. O'Malley brings with him to Barnaby's life several odd-ball cronies that include:

Gorgon, a loveable talking dog played by Bobby Rigling; Gus the Ghost, a gentle refined spook portrayed by Gary Nelson also of Daly City; Launcelot McSnoyd, a leprechaun with Virginia Johnson playing the role. The more staid members of the chaotic story include:

Darrel Greer and Kathy Hawkins as Barnaby's Mom and Pop; Eugene Merwin and Prince Serrecchia as Boss Snagg and his henchman, Muggins; Sherry Cleary as Jane Shultz; Dennis Krier as Dr. A. A. Smith, a psychiatrist who should see a psychiatrist; Bill Thaxton as Mr. O'Rooney, an efficient hospital attendant; and Alexandra Brenke, as Miss Foster.

Tickets are available through the American Associaton of University Women for the performance on December 7, or at the door for any of the six performances.

Teen-agers Marching For Hospital Praised

The "silent majority" in Pacifica made news for a change. The teen-agers who volunteered their time and energies for the annual Danny Thomas Teen March on a recent Sunday afternoon solicited contributions to aid leukemia stricken American children — ALSAC — at St. Jude Children's Research Hospital in Memphis, Tenn.

The hospital works around the clock in a dedicated effort to stop catastrophic diseases in children, primarily leukemia, cancer and muscular disorders.

Patients (18 years of age and under) are admitted to the hospital when referred by their physicians. There is no charge to any patient.

The "ALSAC Army" volunteers went door to door requesting donations of Pacificans who contributed $358.51.

Danny Thomas, the president of the charitable organization pledged to limit expenses to less than 10 per cent of all collections. The hospital will receive over 90 cents of every dollar collected.

Miss Caroline Rodarte, 1544 Madeira Drive, Linda Mar, accepted contributions totaling $53.62, leading not only Pacifica volunteers, but all in San Mateo County.

TALL IN THE SADDLE is Christine Loughran after Mrs. John Breslin, Mrs. William Arata and Mrs. John Loughran of the Westlake Catholic Women visited Bay Meadows to complete arrangements for the Day at the Races the WCW is sponsoring Wednesday. Bus transportation (optional) will leave the Westlake Shopping Center at 11:30 a.m. and return in the late afternoon. Contact Mrs. Loughran, chairman, for further information.

WOMEN HOLDING tickets to the Westlake Catholic Women's third annual Day at the Races are asked not to forget that the bus will be leaving the Westlake Shopping Center parking lot promptly at 11:30 this morning!

Despite the press of holiday chores, a very large group has responded to the invitation to take part in this benefit outing, according to Mrs. James Kelleher, publicity chairman for the Westlake parish. All proceeds are pledged to the Our Lady of Mercy building fund.

The executive board of the group will be working hard the remainder of this week, preparing for the December 14 Cookie and Candy Sale, Mrs. Kelleher said.

The sale, which once included boutique items, will be confined wholly to edibles this year. Candies and sweets of various types, all made and donated by the members of the Westlake Catholic Women, have been gaily wrapped for Christmas giving and will be sold beginning at 7:45 a.m. in the parish hall.

The community at large, as well as members of the parish are invited to drop in and do some early holiday shopping, Mrs. Kelleher announced.

The Our Lady of Mercy Parish Hall is located on the lower floor of the church at 1 Elmwood Drive. The hall may be reached directly from the parking lots at the north or south ends of the building. Members of the guild will be on hand to assist shoppers until 1:30 p.m.

Mrs. Raymond Forcina is the general chairman and she has been assisted by co-chairmen Mrs. Dario Baciocco, Mrs. Del Baumgartner and Mrs. Frank Kelecheva.

Mrs. Dan Regan, Mrs. Louis Grech and Mrs. Joseph Gumina have formed the committee which whipped up the delightful decorations for tonight's program, according to Mrs. John Lagomarsino, publicity chairman for the Women's Guild.

A special invitation has been issued by Mrs. Raymond Nightingale, guild president, to the community to come and enjoy the fellowship, food and lovely music.

Still ahead of the board are the chores involved with presenting the Christmas Boutique.

Mrs. Lagomarsino reiterated that the sale of holiday gifts, food and decorations will be held this Sunday, following each mass, in the parish hall.

Mrs. Robert Lapachet is the boutique chairman and Mrs. Robert Paddreddii is the co-chairman.

For the convenience of shoppers, a light breakfast will be available for those who desire it.

THE PUBLIC is invited to attend the tenth annual Formal Art Exhibit being staged this weekend at the Long Table on Pedro Point by the members of the Art Guild of Pacifica.

The show will open this Saturday and Sunday and many of the paintings and craft items on exhibit will be offered for sale.

Guild members have selected Mary Jo Hendricks and William LaForge of the Oceana High School art department to judge the entries. Prizes for first, second, third and honorable mention will be given in painting, sculpture, architectural forms, graphics, crafts and other media.

In addition show-goers will be able to take part in making an award to an exhibit to be selected by their vote. Everyone will be invited to vote for the entry they feel is the best and the artist will be presented with a merchandise certificate.

One guild member will be named to receive the Ewald Travel Service Award, and other special presentations are expected, according to Mrs. Lilliam Neathery, the lady in charge of publicity for the guild.

Mrs. Shirley Scolini and Mrs. Patricia Wommack are the co-chairmen.

Shoppers are advised that, while they may purchase items either day, all show entries must remain on exhibit until the exhibit closes on Sunday.

The program calls for dinner at the Hilton Hotel, entertainment stops at the Bocce Ball and Finocchio's in North Beach and a welcome to the New Year at the Forbidden City.

Mrs. Elizabeth Funderburd and Mrs. Lucille Rentmuster have details and can accept your reservations, according to Mrs. Edna Laurel Calhan, club president.

Director Tells Of Interest By Girls In Coast Pageant

This is the Golden Anniversary of the Miss America Pageant in Atlantic City and to celebrate the 50-year Jubilee many changes are taking place.

All preliminary pageant queens—including Miss Pacifica 1970—will be part of this celebration and will be awarded a gold crown as a symbol of the progress from humble beginnings as a "beauty" pageant in 1919.

Three weeks ago, it was announced that entries were being accepted for Miss Pacifica-1970, and according to Irma vander Hule and Bonnie Heeley, co-chairmen of the Entries Committee, a record number of aspirants for the regal crown have indicated their interest.

More than 30 girls who are high school seniors or graduates and are between the ages of 18 and 28 have contacted the pageant committee.

This year's pageant, scheduled for April 25, 1970 at Terra Nova High School will be the third as an officially franchised preliminary to Miss California-Miss America. In both 1968 and 1969, the local extravaganza was designated the best staged pageant in the State of California.

According to Aubrey Lumley, executive director of the Chamber of Commerce—sponsored pagenat, the interest and enthusiasm expressed by so many aspirants is making it possible to schedule a preliminary pageant in late January. At this time, all entries will be judged on a preliminary scale to select the 12 semi-finalists who will parade the runway in April.

One of these 12 will be selected Miss Pacifica 1970 and be given the chance to represent the City of Pacifica before three state television at the State finals in June as she tries to capture the state crown and a chance at Miss America in September.

Entries will be accepted through January 5, and the call is still out to interested young ladies who would like to further their educations through the many scholarships available. Miss Pacifica will receive an educational scholarship along with the five top finalists.

In addition, should she become Miss California, she will receive several thousand dollars in scholarships and prizes. Miss America will receive $10,000 in educational scholarships in addition to a $75,000 personal appearance contract. At all steps along the way to the 50-year-old crown are hundreds of dollars in scholarships and prizes.

Plans Are Made For Yule Events

The South San Francisco Woman's Club will celebrate its annual Christmas "Hi-Jinks" in the Clubhouse, 470 Grand Avenue, South San Francisco.

Turkey and trimmings buffet luncheon will be served at 1 p.m.

Mrs. Harold Hendrickson is in charge.

Santa will distribute gifts to everyone present. Part of the Christmas giving by the membership, also, is a contribution of new toys to the Christmas Bureau, a subsidiary of the Volunteer Bureau of San Mateo County.

Special entertainment on the program will feature a sampling of the music of the newly formed "Community Choraliers," sponsored by the South San Francisco Park and Recreation Department.

They will be accompanied by Miss Sherilyn Duncan of Broadmoor and under the direction of Mrs. Patti Parks of the Monte Verde area.

Membership at present is 27 members. Their selections will be a sampling of their television appearance Christmas Day on KRON.

NELL NORTON

(Sugar 'n Spice)

Good morning, good cooks.

Here it is December 3, are you as busy as a bee? Silly question. Along with our Christmas buying and wrapping, making and baking, writing and mailing, we also have to keep our happy homes running don't we? One of the main ingredients in this process is having good food on the table, on time. If this good food is simple to prepare and inexpensive that just makes it all the better doesn't it?

Thinking along these lines I've been testing and tasting some casserole dishes over the last months and reserving them to share with you good cooks at this busy Christmas time.

This first recipe comes from Mrs. Barbara Johnson who lives at 1939-47th Ave. in San Francisco. It has the unusual name of "More." After making it I can see where it got it's name. It's so good you keep eating more and more.

MORE

1 pound ground beef
1 clove garlic, minced
1 medium onion, chopped
1 green pepper, chopped
2 tbsp. oil
1 can peas (303 size)
1 can whole kernel corn (303)
1 can tomatoes (303)
½ lb. uncooked elbow macaroni
1 can sliced ripe olives
salt and pepper to taste
1 cup grated cheese
1 large can mushroom spaghetti sauce (about 14 ounces)

Brown the pound of ground beef and set aside. Heat the two tablespoons oil in skillet, add the minced garlic, chopped onion and green pepper. Cook until tender.

Cook the half pound macaroni and drain. Add the cooked macaroni, the can of corn, peas, tomatoes, sliced ripe olives and browned meat to the cooked vegetables. Salt and Pepper to taste. Simmer for about 10 minutes.

Lightly grease a two quart casserole. Place a layer of meat and macaroni mixture then grated cheese, repeat layers. Cover and bake in 350-degree oven for one half hour. Remove pour the can of spaghetti sauce over top, return to oven and bake 15 minutes more or until bubbly hot.

Serves 8 generously.

This next casserole uses rice as it's starch with sausage and ground beef. It makes a very tasty dish.

PAKISTAN CASSEROLE

1 cup plus 2 tablespoons regular rice
¼ cup margarine
¼ cup flour
2 cups milk
1 pound bulk sausage
1 pound ground beef
½ green pepper chopped
2 medium onions chopped
¼ pound fresh mushrooms, sliced
1½ teaspoons salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
¼ pound (1 cup) grated cheddar cheese

Cook the one cup plus two tablespoons rice according to directions on package.

Make a medium white sauce by slowly cooking the fourth cup margarine and fourth cup flour until smooth and bubbly. Add the two cups milk gradually, cooking and stirring until thickened.

In a separate pan, brown the pound of sausage and pound of ground beef thoroughly with the chopped green pepper, chopped onions and quarter pound sliced mushrooms. Drain off excessive fat. Add the one and one-half teaspoons salt and eighth teaspoon pepper and combine with the cooked rice and white sauce. Mixing well.

Place in a greased casserole and top with the cup of grated cheese. Bake in 350-degree oven 30 to 40 minutes. Makes about 8 servings.

PEACHY SPANISH RICE

1 can (1 pound, 13 ounces) cling peach halves
2 tablespoons salad oil
1 pound ground beef
½ cup chopped green pepper
½ cup chopped onion
1 clove garlic, minced
½ cup water
½ cup rice
1½ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 can (8 ounce) tomato sauce
3 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese

Drain the peaches, saving ½ cup syrup. Heat the two tablespoons oil in skillet; add the pound of ground beef and brown. Push beef to one side. Add the half cup each onion and green pepper and the clove garlic; saute about 2 minutes.

Stir in the half cup water, half cup rice, 1½ teaspoons salt and one-fourth teaspoon pepper, can of tomato sauce and reserved half cup peach syrup. Cover and simmer 30 minutes or until rice is tender.

Spoon into 11x7-inch baking dish. With back of spoon, make 6 hollows in mixture for peaches. Place peach half cup side up in each; sprinkle with the three tablespoons grated cheese.

Bake in 400-degree oven for 10 minutes. Serve at once. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

A Carmel Trip For Newlyweds From Daly City

After a wedding trip to Carmel, Mr. and Mrs. Steve Heneise (Arlene Ann McKay) are at home in San Francisco.

They were married in a recent ceremony at the Grace Presbyterian Church in Daly City by the Rev. James McCluskey. They met their guests at the American Legion Hall in San Bruno.

Arlene, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David McKay of Daly City, walked to the altar with her father. She wore a white satin Empire gown with Alencon lace detail and long pointed sleeves. She added a floor-length silk illusion mantilla with appliques of the same lace.

Barbara Kessler, maid of honor, set the style of dress for the other attendants in a ruby velvet bodice and satin skirt.

Forensics Club At Westmoor Preps For District Finals

As preparation for the Golden Gate Speech Association's district finals, to be held in January, Westmoor's Forensics Club has been competing in various speech tournaments.

The last speech tournament, in which Westmoor's Forensic group will be competing before the district finals to be held at Terra Nova, is being hosted by Berkeley High on December 13. Accompanying the 11 students to this Individual Events Tournament will be Miss Mary Ann Holden, Westmoor's speech instructor.

Competing in her first tournament, Chris Dethlefsen, made it to the semi-finals of U.S.F.'s all-high school tournament, of November 8. She came in fifth with an interpretative reading of "Let's Sell Americanism."

Richmond's John F. Kennedy High School was the destination of Michael Lucchesi for the individual events tournament held there on November 15. Lucchesi, competing in the extemporaneous division (division in which contestant, until contest starts, doesn't know what his current events topic of something happening in the past six weeks is), lasted through the finals, earning a fifth place position.

On November 22, John F. Kennedy High School again served as host of a debate tournament. Two members from the forensics group, Pete Seagrave and Jeff Harris, teamed up to debate on a topic concerning the United States being involved in any unilateral intervention.

Categories for the Berkeley High School's December 13 individual events tournaments are interpretive reading, dramatic interpretation, humorous interpretation, oratorical interpretation, original oratory, oratorical analysis, and impromptu.

Tau Gamma Loses Its President

The Tau Gamma Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi held a progressive dinner on November 15 and honored its former president, Denise Frary, with farewell gifts and cards. Denise has moved to Ukiah.

Cocktails were served at Betty Wilson's home; salad at Ronnie Sanford's; the main course at Thelma Loos', and dessert and dancing at Joan McClellan's home.

At Beverley Mannina's home on November 25, it was decided that Ronnie Sanford will be Tau Gamme's Valentines Princess.

She will be competing with other sorority princesses for the title on February 14, 1970 at a dinner and dancing affair in the Fern Room at the Furniture Mart in San Francisco.

The sorority's participation in the Elk Market was reported as "successful," and a check for $30 was sent as a donation to the Walter W. Ross Memorial Scholarship Fund.

Betty Wilson, service chairman, reported on the sorority's adopted needy family, and thanked members for their participation.

Carolyn Phillips gave a program on pattern drafting, showing members tips on styling dresses through apex pattern changing.

A Westmoor 'Music Lesson' For Art, English Students

The fine arts of music, art, and poetry are academically seperated in their respective categories in high school, but students of three such classes at Westmoor recently viewed the interrelationship of the subjects.

Students in Mrs. Sylvia Segal's English class were engaged in a unit of poetry and creative writing. Finding her students perplexed with the problem of improvising their thoughts into verse and story, Mrs. Segal approached head of Westmoor's music department, Howard Loeffler, with the thought that viewing some music students improvising and elaborating upon their works, would help the struggling writers.

Unable to arrange for a special meeting of the involved students, Loeffler arranged to have Westmoor's stage band play at all three lunches one day to give the English students an opportunity to see how a piece of music is adopted to fit the individual style of the band.

The lunchtime performance also helped to ease another problem, "lunchtime boredom," one student observed.

Led by student director Greg Adams, the stage band went through several numbers ranging from blues and rock and swing rhythms to popular tunes. Much of the music, such as "Cantaloupe Island," was Greg's original composition.

Instrumental improvisation was involved in many pieces, and Greg often stopped his fellow band members to elaborate on particular passages of a musical composition.

The performances also served to illustrate the expansion or elaboratiom that can be achieved for an "authorative" suggestion.

Aileen Kelly, Westmoor art instructor, said she finds dissent among her art students when she assigns them a particular subject on which to base their art works. The students prefered to work only on their individual interests.

In conferring with Loeffler as to whether his music students were always allowed to go off on their own tangents, it was learned that he offers many definite suggestions to help broaden their horizons.

He used the lunch-time stage band programs to demonstrate this to the art students, as the band students showed the development of improvisation in music from an "authorative" suggestion.

Also performing with the stage band were two vocalists, Sheryl Edgerton and Sylvia Walton, who sang "Thank Heaven for Little Girls" and "Cabaret."

Chorus Launches Holiday Season

Westmoor's Girls' Chorus, directed by Howard Leoffler, began its busy holiday schedule with a performance for the residents of Skyline Terrace Convalescent Home, November 25.

Presenting a program consisting of Christmas tunes and general material like the popular "Match Maker," the chorus entertained the tenants of the home for the third consecutive year.

The Serramonte Center Merchants' Association has invited Loeffler's Glee Club, as well as a second girls' group from Westmoore directed by William Ardis, for a "Caroling Singout" on December 15, at 7 p.m. in the Serramonte Shipping Center.

Both choruses will perform their Christmas program for their fellow students in Westmoor's Little Theatre on December 17, during all lunch periods.

Both groups of carolers will finish off their schedules by sounding their songs at the P-TA meeting on December 18, from 7:45 to 8:30 p.m.

THE MICHAEL VON JOOS (Donna-Marie Harris)

San Bruno Home For Justwed Pair

After a wedding trip through northern California to Lake Shasta and Lake Tahoe, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Von Joo (Donna Marie Harris) are living in San Bruno.

They were married in a recent ceremony at the First Baptist Church of San Bruno and met their guests at the San Bruno home of her mother, Mrs. Ruth Harris. Michael is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Von Joo of Pacifica.

Donna-Marie walked to the altar with her father Joel C. Harris, and recited her vows in a white satin brocade Empire gown with leg-o-mutton sleeves and a high neckline. Her bouquet included white cymbidiums and stephanotis.

Linda Bothello was the honor attendant for Donna-Marie, and Sandy Queen, Judy Micklos and Alice McMillin were the bridesmaids. They wore long, pale blue satin gowns with silver trim and carried yellow marguerites. Paula Eileen Harris was her sister's flower girl.

Dave Johnston was the best man, and guests were seated by Tom Johnson, Randy Stuart and Jim Roach.

The new matron was graduated from Crestmoor High School and is the sister of Charles and Ronald Harris. Her husband, who attended Oceana High School, the College of San Mateo and San Francisco State College, is the brother of Mrs. Samuel Bogas, Mrs. Anton LaVey and Jeannie Von Joo.

Penney Style Show Friday

The winner of Penney's recent "Sew Your Own Thing" contest will be decided at a fashion show December 5 at 7 p.m. in the former Sterling Furniture store. The public is invited, according to Don Davis, manager of Penney's.

The garments, created and sewn by girls whose ages range from 13 to 19, will be judged on construction, style and how it looks on the girl.

Each contestant will model her own creation.

Coordinators for the show are Mrs. Mona Baker and Miss Diane Darnel. They will also give a short presentation of wigs and wig styles.

Judges are to be area home economics teachers.

The local winner will receive a portable sewing machine and a chance to compete in Penney's regional competition. The grand prize is a $300 wardrobe and a color TV.

The club now is selling copies of its just-published cookbook. The book, "The Peninsula Table," features a history of the Burlingame - Hillsborough - San Mateo area along with favorite recipes of the entire membership. The introduction of the book outlines the history of the club.

The books are available by contacting Mrs. Doak or Mrs. M. G. Philleo, president.

Members are continuing to collect Betty Crocker coupons for the Crippled Children's Hospital to help them purchase a station wagon.

New members recently welcomed include Mesdames George Sitts, New York; Roy Andren, El Granada; Les Salter, South San Francisco; Fred Yeager, Towson, Md.; Jack Tause, San Anselmo; William McCall, Philadelphia, Pa.; John Berry, Berkeley; John Lank, San Bruno; Sargina Yohanan, and Fred Lusardi, San Francisco; Gini Grissom, Los Angeles; Seymour Greenberg, Denver; Curt Greenman, San Lorenzo; William Rosenzweig, Madrid, Spain; Henry Schaefer, Grand Rapids, Mich.; Andrew Chigos, Daly City; Stewart Dimon, Millbrae, and Grace Travis, Darien, Conn.

Soroptimists Offer Awards

The Soroptimist club of North San Mateo County is currently participating in the 1970 Youth Citizenship Awards competition, Soroptimist Federation of the Americas.

The awards are not scholarships but "Awards of Merit," given for outstanding contributions by young people, in the hope that this will encourage youth to develop high concepts of patriotism and to encourage effective co-operation in home, community, national and international affairs.

Senior boys and girls attending the five high schools in the area last week, that the South San Francisco club encompasses, are encouraged to obtain applications from their assistant principals or vile principals in charge of student affairs. Applications are in the offices of South San Francisco, El Camino, Terra Nova, Oceana and Jefferson High Schools.

All applications must be returned to Youth Projects Chairman Mrs. Anita Fross, by December 19

South San Francisco And The Jumbo Jet . . .

By BOB PETERSON

South San Francisco is fighting to be heard above the roar of jumbo jet aircraft.

The city has begun by sounding out the present noise problem through an extensive survey by Berkeley acoustical consultants Wilson, Ihrig and Associates, Inc.

Titled "Aircraft Noise at South San Francisco," the report is 17 pages in length. It contains eight additional pages of supporting data such as maps, illustrations and graphs.

The primary purpose of the study was to evaluate and document the existing aircraft noise level in order to compare any future increases in the noise exposure to residents.

Of particular concern to the city is the impending inauguration of the 747 Jumbo Jet, projected for use later this year or in 1970.

According to the report, the introduction of the 747 cannot improve the noise situation. "The best situation which can be expected," said the report, "is that the 747 will not make the noise envoronment in South San Francisco worse than it is."

The report went on to say that the impact of the 747 on the acoustical environment depends largely upon the degree of success attained by the engine and airframe manaufacturers in their noise control program.

Both Boeing Aircraft Company and Pratt and Whitney have indicated they are expending considerable research effort to reduce the noise exposure of persons on the ground beneath the flight path of the 747.

The report, however, points out that the degree of success of these noise reduction programs is not known. Therefore the exact amount of noise to be expected cannot be precisely predicted.

Since efforts to obtain actual acoustical data on the 747 from the manufacturer were unsuccessful, the acoustical consultants based this section of their report on a "comprehensive article on the 747 in an aviation industry magazine." They also utilized Federal Aviation Administration facts on the existing noise level created by the 747 take-off.

For the purposes of this report, San Francisco International Airport's Runway 28 is the culprit in the noise affecting South San Francisco residents. It is the only runway from which traffic taking off passes over the city.

The report says that "casual observation of the air traffic indicates that when propeller and light aircraft depart from runway 28, they usually turn aside well before reaching residential areas of South San Francisco."

Noise levels created on runway 28 by the jets were measured and statistically analyzed on several days and at widely separated times during 1969.

The primary location was west of the intersection of Spruce Avenue and El Camino Real, on the roof of a two-story apartment house. Other points in the city were Valverde Drive at Yellowstone Drive, in the area of Dublin Drive, Dublin Court, and Erin Place, and at Serra Vista School.

Three different methods of study and analysis were used.

The first consisted essentially of laboratory equipment taken to the monitoring location and left in unattended operation for a 24-hour period. It produced a continuous ink record which provided data on the maximum noise levels generated by 957 flights.

The second system employed a tape recorder, controlled by a time clock, to record the noise at the monitoring site for a 15-minute period every hour. The recordings of flyover and community noise were subsequently analyzed in the laboratory.

The third system comprised two sets of sound level meters and magnetic tape recorders. This system required the presence of two operators to identify the aricraft configuration and synchronize simultaneous recordings in different locations.

Results indicated that "these aircraft noise levels represent a serious intrusion, as can be demonstrated by comparison with familiar noises or by observation of the degree to which they interfere with speech communication."

Using a scale in which the Number 94 is the average level of noise observed outdoors, the report says that face-to-face communications are possible at a distance of one foot only — by shouting.

In a flyover noise field at a numerical level of 105 (the maximum level observed during this study), face-to-face communications are not feasible — regardless of the distance or the amount of vocal effort.

With the advent of the jumbo jets, an admittedly pessimistic numerical 116 noise level was predicted in the report. This level, however, does not take into consideration the noise control measures being employed on the 747 engines.

Another fact pointed out is that the 94 numerical level is very close to the average level produced by diesel trucks at highway speeds, at a distance of 25 feet from the trucks.

It was generally observed that the noise levels at locations on the far side of town, but still under the flight path of the jets, had numerical values only three or four figures below the 94 value recorded directly in line with the runway.

Average levels over a long period were 91 at Serra Vista School and about 90 at the intersection of Yellowstone and Valverde drives. Measurements in the vicinity of Dublin Court, Dublin Drive and Erin Place were typically 10 to 15 figures lower than those near the El Camino and Spruce intersection.

Heavy traffic at the airport begins abruptly on some days at the beginning of the normal working day and may continue on to 11 p.m. with little reduction. The average number of flights over South San Francisco per day, as indicated by four days represented in the report, was 219.

"A continuous increase in the number of take-offs at the airport should be anticipated, since the FAA is predicting continuously increasing traffic for the next decade," said the report.

Inside wood frame residential structures, the typical noise level of 94 would drop to about 70 to 75. The 105 noise level outside would be approximately 80 to 85 indoors.

"When the flyovers are occurring frequently and at fairly high levels, due to wind and weather conditions, television listening may be impractical without earphones or the type which fully enclose the ear," said the report.

It is also stated that the higher indoor levels expected, around 82, "shouting communications will be difficult beyond four feet, and normal voice communications will be impossible."

Individuals vary greatly in their willingness to express displeasure or to take action against an intruding noise, according to the report.

And the annoyance caused by a noise is closely related to the degree to which it interefers with the activities of the hearer.

"Persons engaged in mentally demanding work, attending a concert, listening to a radio or television prigram, talking on the telephone or resting will react with greater annoyance to a noise than will those engaged in physical labor or attending a ball game.

"Those who complain are usually found not to be neurotic or chronic complainers," said the report, "but rather are those who believe that complaining will accomplish something."

If the concern that went into having this report prepared is any indication, South San Franciscans aren't just blowing off steam.

Not So Routine

DEEP THINKING DEPT. — The move underway in Daly City to re-zone the Chinese Cemetery property isn't all that routine. The city wants to zone the land from its present residential use to a cemetery restriction. They (the city) claims that the future status of the property was hanging when the Serramonte area was annexed to the city some time ago, but being as how the area is still used as a burial ground, officials have determined it must be a cemetery, just like the sign over the entrance proclaims.

But behind all this heavy thinking is the fact that relations between Chinese cemetery officials and city fathers hasn't been all that smooth and Daly City could probably get more information concerning development of the acreage from a fortune cookie.

Also, there has been talk that cemetery officials have a building program up their sleeves and unless the city moves fast to control it, the Chinese organization could put up residential structures — perhaps apartments. The re-zoning would nix the move.

THAT CEASE AND DESIST order from the Regional Quality Control Board concerning operation of the Daly City garbage dump is so much trash. The same board issued that same order (with a few amendments on a time schedule) four years ago.

AND SPEAKING OF THE DUMP, Daly City for one will not go along with the county on contributing — at a price — its refuse to a regional garbage dump in Menlo Park.

IT SEEMS CALIFORNIA'S Governor Reagan gave advocates of legalized "pot" the old What-For on the Johnny Carson show the other p.m. The guy pointed out that if the U.S. okayed sale of pot (sorry no minors) across the nation's counters it would be the only country to do so. Many countries that previously had legalized the weed have since found it to be the root of many evils and removed it from their store shelves, according to Reagan and records. Nuf said? Probably not!

JOHN WUERTHNER HAS LEFT Daly City, and Colonial Savings, for Carmel and the Carmel Valley Savings and Loan organization. Last Wednesday he bid farewell to the local Rotary.

ARE JUNKED CARS now allowed to park in service stations? Many stations are already eyesores with old tires, spilled oil and such, why should residents also be subjected to wrecked cars openly on display? Daly City officials may call this writer for the name and location of the station at the Skyline Shopping Center.

IT'S BEEN A BLEAK "holiday season" for Daly City superintendent of Parks August Conci. He lost his brother and mother within a one month period.

JUDGE FRANK BLUM'S son, Bill, hurt in an auto crash with his wife two weeks ago is on the mend at home. Ditto his wife.

WAITING FOR THE TRAIN — But it may never come and I'm beginning to agree with some Daly City officials who are holding their ground on the discussion. Seems BARTD doesn't want to let Daly City in on the "good things" and wants to hand this North County community only the scraps.

Latest hangup between the city and BARTD is over the terminus station agreement, especially where it concerns parking, extension of the line southward and an overpass on Knowles avenue that would prevent traffic tieups at rush hours. Everything else is agreeable to the transit district.

BARTD doesn't want to enter into an agreement on the extension that would prevent them from entering into any deals with any other agency. Nor do they want to foot the bill for the overpass. They would rather tie it up with beautiful red tape and let it slowly rot away until Daly City picks up the tab. No thanks!

As for parking. BARTD wants to let it go at 690 cars — give or take a couple — and put up additional parking later. But it has come to our attention that tucked away in a corner of the 13 acre Knowles lot is enough open space for parking and added 250 cars. All BARTD would have to do is pave it over.

Lingering Effect

Every political event contains its own affirmatives and negatives, winners and losers. Analytical consideration of the Haynsworth nomination shows that the 55-45 Senatorial vote will have lingering effects.

President Nixon would be the first to say that winning is better than losing. This was a loss, but the greater part of the loss belonged to Judge Haynsworth, and not the President. Even so, the consequences are pervasive.

This was the first big vote following the death of Everett Dirksen, and the new leadership is off to a shaky start. Seventeen Republican Senators, including the leadership, rejected the nominee. Team efforts are difficult to organize, and some time will have to pass before this division in party ranks will be repaired.

Those Republicans who voted "aye", of their own volition, present little problem. Those who voted "aye", under duress, could be difficult votes to secure on future party or Presidential issues. Those who voted "no" will probably be easy marks for coming Presidential projects. Certainly Senators, such as Scott and Griffin, are going to do everything possible to reestablish their administration and party credentials.

The Senate will be touchy on new appointments. Many Senators will sense an obligation to be as thorough on new cases as in Haynsworth. Partisan fires have been ignited that could change the old way of doing things on nominations. The new nominee for this vacancy will have to be a very clean and courageous man, indeed.

Republicans have lost a campaign issue. Following the Fortas resignation, Democrats carried an extra burden of judicial impropriety. While the Fortas situation and the Haynsworth case probably represent the difference between a breach of ethics, and the appearance of unethical conduct, the two cases are being joined in the public eye. Note how often commentators allude to Fortas and Haynsworth at the same time.

But the ultimate vote did not bring this about. For a short while following the disclosure of the Brunswick case, the nomination could have been withdrawn without political impact. The time for this was short, one or two days at most. After that, the administration visibly continued to support a nominee with ethical problems and withdrawal, victory or loss made no difference. The full political benefit of the Fortas resignation had been dispelled.

Another partisan political consequence of the test was the cooperation of labor, the old left, and the new left. They have not been together on an important issue for some years, and it will be interesting to see if their alliance will be continued for other purposes.

The President turned the Republican machinery to full "go" on this nomination. Once started, it isn't easy to turn off. Highly professionalized top party leadership will have no difficulty in supporting the very same Senators who disappointed them on the Haynsworth vote. But grass roots workers and finance types may be a little slower in coming around. As Republicans have an opportunity to win control of the Senate in 1970, much time and attention will have to be spent by Presidential forces in calming down the troops in some key northern states.

The entrenched position of the President has probably weakened George Wallace's hold on the South. Should he nominate another Southern conservative, this is even more likely. Of course, any regional preference has the consequence of alienating polarized opposites. So, while positional gains have been secured in the south, there has been some northern atrophy.

The President has carefully avoided total identification with Judge Haynsworth as an individual. Rather, he has emphasized the nature of the appointment: that of balancing the Court with a strong conservative nominee. To the extent he is able to produce such a man, particularly a southerner, the sense of loss will diminish. The public has never been too critical of a President who has stood by his man and will probably be even less critical of a President who stands by an objective principle.

The day was really saved by the emerging nature of the Burger Court. When it insisted on immediate action in school desegregation cases, the President stood free of any charge of creating a segregationist court. This made the President's principle more palatable to the north, and took a good deal of the fire and loss out of the Haynsworth vote.

Presidents' Religion

"DEAR SIR: Is there a book about the religious beliefs of the Presidents of the United States?"

There is: "God in the White House" by Edmund Fuller and David E. Green. It was written because the authors find that the religious beliefs of the presidents have been treated by two kinds of writers: Those "who attempt to portray the presidents as superhumanly virtuous, priggishly pious and undeviatingly orthodox and on the other hand those non-religious writers, image smashes, myth destroyers and evangelical atheists who have been devoted in proving that our national heroes were not orthodox Christians."

"Today," the authors write, "is an ideal time for a corrective striking of a balance." With this in mind they attempt to present a picture of the personal faith of each President without any attempting to prove him either religious or nonreligious.

In this endeavor, the authors are as successful as may be expected. In some incidents, however, they have not been able to resist the "temptation to pass judgment." For example, this statement about Warren G. Harding. He "had genuine religious beliefs, but translated them into his life perhaps less effectively than any other president."

"GOD IN THE WHITE HOUSE" is full of facts. Thomas Jefferson, it relates, compiled an edition of the Bible as a means of relaxing from the duties of the presidency.

He called it "The Philosphy of Jesus of Nazareth. Extracted from the Account of His Life Teachings as Given By Matthew, Mark, Luke, and John." It was published many years after Jefferson's death but shows the President as a man who thought of Jesus as a man. All the supernatural elements of Jesus' life, all the miracles, and all the claims of divinity are omitted.

Moreover, the book ends with the entombment of Jesus after his death on the cross.

Of all the presidents, Fuller and Green find Woodrow Wilson may have been the most God-centered. For this reason, Sigmund Freud and others have explored Wilson's religious life. They attribute some of his physical and nervous problems to his intense faith.

George Washington's religious pattern seems to be that used by most of the presidents. To illustrate the authors relate a story that holds that once John Adams gestured to a statue of Washington and said, "There was a man who had sense enough to keep his mouth shut." Then tapping his own bust with his cane, President Adams said, "But that damn fool had not."

YET, THE AUTHORS find that the personal religion of John Adams sustained him through many crises including the death of his alcoholic son, Charles Adams.

Every president has added the words "So help me God," to the oath he is required to take. This phrase was used by Washington even though he was notorious for not kneeling in public worship. Washington was an Episcopalian but maintained many deistical beliefs as did Thomas Jefferson, James Madison and James Monroe.

"God In the White House" was published in 1968. Since then it has been widely read. Surely it answers the need for a book about the religious lives of the presidents of the United States.

Letters to the Editor

Editor, The Post:

A set of legionnaire questions by Don Neathery were printed in the Wednesday edition of your paper this week (Nov. 8). Neathery's questions were not answered except by inference. With Moratorium Day II almost upon us, would it not be appropriate to answer Neathery's questions? May I therefore attempt two things? . . . first, put Neathery's inferred answer in print and second, answer his questions from my own point of view.

"Who gives the loud protestor of today the right to imply they are the only ones for or are unique in their desire for peace?"

The inferred answer is that they are not the only ones; that legionnaires also desire peace. My answer is this: First I am not, nor have I ever been a loud demonstrator. But what the demonstrators are thinking is this:

If, in their actions, legionnaires and others support a policy which chooses military force and violence (so-called "defensive" force) to accomplish peace, then what they really are choosing is more war, in the name of future peace.

Were it so simple! But nowadays, no one can really accurately say that such a stepped up "defensive" war will not escalate into world holocaust, involving atoms, chemicals and germs and, incidentally, all of our hides.

"Where do they get the idea that they are the only ones concerned and who cry when their young go off, or may have to go off?"

Of course, the implied answer is we all cry when our young go off to war. Indeed. My answer is this: if we do not ever find a more intelligent way of solving our international differences, we will be doomed eternally to crying as we send our sons to kill and be killed. (In the name of "defense".) To sooth our guilt we defy their memory and glorify their deeds of violence by calling them heros and then worshipping their graves as if this would be a reasonable thank you to them.

"What makes them think that they are the only ones with a duty?"

The inferred answer is that we all have our duty, although what Neathery means by duty here is again vague. My duty as protestor is to somehow, by reason, show and persuade others how immoral and mindless our involvement in Vietnam is, and how we as a nation, in the name of patriotism, now embrace military chauvinism instead of the virtues of liberty, justice and concern for the welfare of all people. It's a kind of weird madness that few of us seem to recognize.

"Where do they get the idea that they speak for the majority of us?"

The assumed answer is that the real majority is for the war in back of the legionnaires and the only true American. There is really no way to know who had a majority, that only a referendum, but our government saw fit to veto that idea (as did our governor).

Anyway, assuming that you and a majority, that only would mean that might means right, and moral. Is Mr. Neathery really ready to proclaim that?

WALTER WHITE
San Bruno.

(Better Business Bureau)

'Easy Money' Boys

THE EASY MONEY BOYS have already moved their holiday rackets and schemes into high gear. One of the worst offenders are the phony mail-order dealers who are cluttering mailboxes with offers of expensive gifts at low prices. Usually this merchandise, if ever received, turns out to be of inferior quality.

One of the biggest offenders at Christmas time in the "perfume racketeer" offering of perfumes labeled to resemble well-known and highly desireable scents to trap the unwary Christmas shopper.

Others follow a more elaborate scheme which involves placing an advertisement in a high fashion magazine offering French perfumes from eight to twenty-five dollars an ounce. Reprints of the advertisement are used to back up their claims that the cheap perfume being peddled for three to five dollars an ounce is a real bargain.

A scheme which has already been called to the attention of the Better Business Bureau involves Christmas tree decorations. The large quantity of decorations offered for "Only One Dollar" upon arrival were thick cardboard cutouts outlined in luminous paint.

Five "giant rubber toy animals large enough for a child to ride" turned out to be ordinary ballons with instructions to twist them into various shapes.

Another schemer advertised "walking dolls with seven completely glamorous, expertly tailored outfits for only $2.98." The expertly-tailored outfits were die-cut circles of thin plastic material.

To avoid such pitfalls, shoppers should remember that no one gives "something for nothing" and that you "get what you pay for" as the general rule. The best course of action for the shopper is to patronize legitimate local merchants who have reputations to maintain in the community.

If there appears to be any doubt about an offer, check with the Better Business Bureau. A telephone call might save you a great deal of money and disappointments.

Jefferson Elementary Raises 3 Salaries

By BOB PETERSON

Daly City's Jefferson Elementary School District Superintendents received their salary increases last week, shortly after Superintendent Frank Greenwood answered his critics.

Greenwood's salary went from $25,500 to $26,500. Associate Superintendents Roger Barthuli and Vinton Stratton's salaries were increased from $23,750 to $24,450.

The superintendents' salaries were approved individually, both on the same 3-2 vote. Trustee Dorothy Adams voted no on both without compunction. The oher negative voter, Trustee William Schumacher, wavered momentarily before casting his ballot. The impression was that he was not so much against the increase, per se, as he was not in agreement with the amounts.

Prior to board action Greenwood leveled a blast at those persons whom he say have as their target the control of the schools.

"Two weeks ago I sat here and listened to anyone who wanted to take a crack at me," said Greenwood, speaking from a prepared text.

Concerned

"To say it didn't bother me would be a lie because it did. And as I listened, I became damned concerned, not only for myself, but for what I saw could happen to this district if the board ever permitted this district to be run from the floor of this room by anyone capable of stacking an audience."

Using flash cards himself, Greenwood passed copies of his remarks to the press. They consisted of 5½ typed pages. This move, apparently, was to insure accuracy. Greenwood said he has been the victim of being quoted out of context.

Continuing his remarks, Greenwood said, "Several of those complaints were very sincere and quite legitimate.

"I have no quarrel or disagreement with the spokesman for the senior citizens, because if my home was being threatened by high taxes, I would be fighting as hard, if not harder than they are.

"But I intend to do more about their plight than sit in this room and complain. I intend to put up my own money, circulate petitions, and speak in favor of the forthcoming statewide initiative which will insure property tax relief and adequate financing for our schools at every opportunity.

"I have no argument with these people," reiterated Greenwood. "But I do with those who intend to run or ruin our schools."

Smoke Screen

Greenwood said the recent controversy of the children's test scores was, "and is nothing more than," a smoke screen to get at the real target. And that target is control of the schools.

"This is most unfortunate," said Greenwood, "because it casts shadows on the competence of every person associated with this district."

Pointing out that he didn't want his personal critics to undermine the education program, Greenwood said, "Those who find it necessary to stack an audience are not representative of this district's parents.

"There are people in this community, as there are in others, who want to tell our teachers what to teach, when to teach it, and how to teach it.

"There are people who want to determine for all children, what to think, rather than how to think. Because when a child knows how to think, he begins to seek answers and he beings to question the dogmas in which we, as adults and members of majority groups have found security. And it becomes very uncomfortable."

Question

Greenwood singled out one individuai, Robert Kurtz, a parent whom the superintendent felt asked "four quite personal questions about my performance" at the last meeting.

For Greenwood, the most important question asked by Kurtz was "What have you, Mr. Greenwood, contributed to this district during your administration?"

Greenwood, last night, answered, saying "I don't know that I have personally contributed anything, except a lot of time, a lot of thought, a lot of sweat, and at times, a few tears. I can really take no more personal credit than that."

The superintendent then went on to list a series of accomplishments of the district since his tenure as long as your arm. (Actually, they took up two of the typewritten pages).

"I like my job in education, and I like being superintendent," said Greenwood. "Because 90 per cent of my time is spent working with good people who make reasonable requests and who have problems with which I can help."

Greenwood pointed out that in order to control the schools one has to have the superintendent in their hip pocket, or dominate the board. And to dominate the board, one has to control enough votes to keep them in, or put them out of office.

"It is my intention to remain here until such time as a majority of this board asks for my resignation, or until the job I came to do is done," said Greenwood.

"At that time, I will resign voluntarily, leaving my successor with a situation in which he has a chance for success.

Interim

"In the interim period," said Greenwood, "there is no individual, no organization, no newspaper, no amount of public pressure, and no association, professional or otherwise that can force my resignation.

"This is not a challenge," said Greenwood. "It is a simple statement."

Two Killed On Freeway

Two persons were killed and two injured, one from Daly City, in a three-car collision on Bayshore highway in Sunnyvale Thursday morning.

The two dead were identified as Richard Snell, 33, of Fairfield and Nancy Thackston, 23, of San Jose. They were drivers of two of the cars.

Injured were David Earl Henrise, 26, of 230 Abbot Street, Daly City, and Linda Fiore, 20, of San Jose. Henrise was driver of the third car. His injuries were listed as minor.

Ryan With Prize Group

Assemblyman Leo J. Ryan (D-SSF) today expressed great pleasure upon being told that he was the ranking Democrat on a National Award winning Assembly Committee. Research which eventually led to legislation aimed at curbing campus chaos won second place for the California Legislature at the National Conference of State Legislative Leaders last week in Atlanta, Georgia. California was among six states cited for excellence in legislative research.

El Camino High Wins Top Award

The California School Employees Association, Chapter 197, South San Francisco, first Perpetual Rooters Trophy was presented to El Camino High School recently.

Sue Spahn, El Camino homecoming queen, accepted the award.

The trophy will be awarded each year to either South San Francisco or El Camino High School for the best sportsmanship shown by the students and adults at the annual Warriors-Colts football game and exchange rally.

The purpose of the trophy is to promote a more friendly rivalry between the two schools, according to Leonard Bonilla, president of the local chapter and a graduate of SSF High.

Bruce Grantham, faculty advisor to the Rally Committee at El Camino noted, "The conduct and sportsmanship at both the exchange rallies and at the football game was the healthiest I have seen since I have been at El Camino. I feel that the CSEA trophy was the reason for this."

BRIGHT LIGHTS BY LLOYD JOHNSON

Burlingame Hyatt House For Joe Marcellino Ork.

Joe Marcellino and his entertaining dance group opened a limited engagement at the Burlingame Hyatt House Tuesday, December 2. Yes, this is the same popular "Joe" whose band headlined at A. Sabella's on Fisherman's Wharf for so many years. We wish them the best in their new headquarters . . . Not only is the food good at Frank Torres' restaurant in Montara, but so is the surrounding scenery. The Pacific coastline has always been an excellent prelude to a fine meal, and especially so at Torres' . . . It's advisable to make reservations far in advance for your holiday parties at Bruno's in downtown San Mateo. Bruno Faya, master chef and host, will tailor the menu to your request . . . For "old world" Mexican dishes, Jim and Shelly Llewellyn's El Patio restaurants (San Carlos and Menlo Park) offer an extensive menu of peppery favorites. Try the Burritos with creamy re-fried beans for a starter. Mucho delicioso! . . . Doros in San Francisco is one of the most popular restaurants with the wine connoisseurs. Don Dianda stocks the finest and the most rare wines from all over the world for the lunchers and diners at Doros.

J. Marcellino

VISTA VIEW — Overlooking the waters of the Pacific and located in the downstairs level of the Moonraker at Rockaway Beach is Al Williams' Papagayo Room, another Nick Gust enterprise. Al and Nick have teamed to bring you the very best in Mexican food. When you have a 30-minute to an hour waiting list on weekends at three restaurants (Nick's Seashore is located a few steps away), that's something to talk about! Reservations are suggested.

Representing an investment of nearly one-quarter of a million dollars, the Black Stag, located on Ralston Avenue in Belmont, opened its restaurant doors Tuesday, December 2. Featuring a semi-circular cocktail lounge and a dining area which will accommodate 70 persons, in addition to an outdoor patio seating 40 persons, the plush Black Stag will specialize in Italian cuisine (Tuscan-style) seven days a week, it was announced by James W. Lewis, who is a joint owner with the G. C. Morgan Company. Both luncheon and dinner will be served. General Manager is Larry Bourriague; Frank Orsi, formerly of Paoli's, is the executive chef . . . Attention gourmets: the Shirt Tail restaurant in Palo Alto is one of the few to serve the rarely seen Gazpacho "Andalouse," the delightfully tasty chilled Spanish soup. Finely chopped cucumber, bell peppers, onions, diced tomatoes, chopped Jalapanos are served in chilled tomato juice with a wisp of garlic . . . If you don't have a restaurant date this weekend, try taking out an order of chicken (plus many other enticements, at Chicken Unlimited. It's a great treat for the family table — and so easy. Service seven days a week from 11 a.m. to 10 p.m.

James Lewis

Comedian Jackie Curtiss, one-time singer with the Del Courtney, Jack Fina and Carl Ravazza orchestras, and Janice Chontos, singing Playboy Bunny, headline the show in the Playroom of the San Francisco Playboy Club through December 6 . . . Donald J. Devoto, manager of the Hilton Inn, San Francisco International Airport, announces an M & M Time will be held weekdays beginning next Friday in the French Corner Restaurant and Mark Twain Lounge. Martini and Manhattan Time will be held from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. preceding the regular gourmet buffet in the French Corner. Both drinks will be at reduced prices . . . Steve Norton, public relations man and director of sales at the Villa Hotel, reports one of the busiest Holiday booms since the hotel opened its doors. This we like to hear—shows that a goodly share of the dining, beverage and dancing action of the local set takes place right here on the Peninsula . . . The San Carlos Safari restaurant continues to stay at the top of the hamburger and sandwich parade. Have you tried the chili here? It's fantastic! And the home made pies call for seconds.

Incline Village's Fred Facciolla, former pro footballer, has joined the Cal-Neva staff as Sales Representative. Facciolla will travel all over the United States contacting organizations and business promoting conventions and North Tahoe's year-round Cal-Neva Lodge in general. . . . Some of Northern California's outstanding examples of restaurant art is on the walls of Rudolfo's Steak House in Palo Alto. Professor Robert Lupetti painted murals of familiar Italian scenes in luminescent paint, which makes them glow in the dark. The murals are well worth a trip to this charming place operated by the Alfinito brothers. . . . It was truly "Thanksgiving" at Scotty Campbell's in Redwood City: the complete executive staff (Mary Lou Francis, Theresa and Bud Urban, and the girls' lovely mother, Helen Trainer, was on hand to greet their festive holiday dinner guests. . . . The Shadows of San Mateo has experienced an extra burst of business in the "soup section." Thick German soup seasoned with culinary finesse is in great demand these crisp days.

Foster's Business On The Upgrade In All Fields

Foster's new "Dinners for our Senior Citizens" is a solid click, with special chartered busloads of the senior group coming in from all over the Bay Area to enjoy the $1.25 dinner, which is served full course from 1:30 p.m. to 6 p.m. (eligibility cards must be presented). "Not only is the restaurant doing a capacity business," says Manager Wilfred Caldwell, "but take out of Farm-Fried Chicken has increased twofold." Quality and service are Foster's "daily doubles," and Henry Solomon, president and general manager of Foster Lunch System Ltd., is the "presiding judge." . . . For a Holiday festival "a la Las Vegas," Fred and Jerry Rapp's Holiday Inn in South San Francisco is the "place." Well appointed in all facilities — lodging, dining, and meeting rooms, this conveniently located vacation spa is among those listed as the Peninsula's most desirable . . . Lew Lehr's steak house in San Francisco's Marina District is one of the most popular sites for private dinner parties of all kinds. Tuesday through Sunday, groups to 35 persons are accommodated in the private party room. On Mondays, the entire restaurant and lounge is available for parties up to 125 persons.

Bruce L. Locken, general manager of the Cabana Hyatt House, really has the magnificent Palo Alto hostelry humming these days. Nero's Nook the plush cocktail lounge has become one of the area's swingin'est spots. Taormina's Royal Notes currently star. Harry Kimball, regional vice president of Hyatt, and Jo Green, sales director, are part of the crack management team of this conference and social center . . . There's a fantastic new group headlining at Lori's in Redwood City. Called "The Epics" and featuring the vocals of Linda Marie, the group makes the scene Tuesday through Saturday from 9 p.m. Mike, your host, has an entertainment scoop this time . . . For a truly refreshing evening out on the town, stop by Baron's famous cocktail lounge in San Francisco and watch sparkling Margie Brandon at the organ. If you can take your eyes off of her pretty countenance for a few moments, note her fancy footwork on the organ pedals. You'll swear she's dancing as well as singing and playing on the keys . . . Fred McMurray and his beautiful blonde wife, actress June Haver, recent ringsiders at Finocchio's, went backstage for some chit-chat with the female impersonators, who are now world-famous. Both were impressed with the fabulous wardrobes of the performers.

Internationally known master chef Wilfried Blarer and his charming wife, Marion, have decorated their Matterhorn restaurant in Burlingame as warmly as Marion's European smile. Glittering candlelight reflecting on rich panelled walls adds a touch of intrigue to the dining room, which is enhanced by scenic paintings of the Alps and a Swiss wine rack . . . The Domino Club's banquet and private cocktail party facilities are doing a land office business this year. These rooms are decorated with the celebrated undraped art. And the award-winning cuisine is served exactly as it is in the main Domino restaurant. . . . Opel Grandbanche, lovely waitress on the New Southern restaurant staff, has been named queen of Colma's Firemans Ball. The ball will be held at Colombo Hall in Colma tomorrow night . . . Tom Carter, the prominent San Francisco banker with Barclay's Bank at 111 Pine Street, tells your Bright Lighter that the Buffalo Stew at Tommy's Joynt is his favorite dish. Being a beer lover, Carter also likes having a choice from among 100 different imported and domestic beers.

Walter Keane, one of America's favorite artists, was recently interviewed at L'Auberge in Atherton by writer Phyllis Butler for Les Gals Magazine. Keane, who draws little girls with big eyes, is now established International Art Galleries, a far-flung franchise operation. Keane's paintings are now being shown on the mezzanine at the Cabana Hyatt House . . . Joe Ercoli of South San Francisco's Leaning Tower restaurant is going over plans for a Spring vacation in Europe. While Joe plays the part of tourist, brother, Lou, will keep the "restaurant fires burning." . . . Luz Garcia's Sinaloa cantina is one of the most exciting clubs to visit during the Holiday season,—especially during the Pinata celebration, which will take place just before Christmas . . . The Chef's Association of the Pacific Coast honored Chef Art Davis of the Exposition Fish Grotto as "Chef of the Year" during a testimonial dinner at the St. Francis. Davis recently won three out of seven National awards for his exclusive crab recipes . . . After a big day of Christmas shopping, drop by Hal's Whistle Stop in Belmont for one of Leo Martay's Buffalo Burgers. It's a dining experience you'll brag about. . . .

A Lifetime Of Growing Things

Landscaping Beauty Due To One Man

By FRANK LaPIERRE

August Conci has devoted the equivalent of two lifetimes to what he knows and does best — making things grow.

He is the unchallenged champion of Daly City's numerous gardeners, and as superintendent of the community's parks he publicly displays his talents throughout the year for all residents to see and enjoy.

Last week his efforts were repaid in one of the faw ways a true greenthumber understands: One of his many public gardens received the Garden Club's coveted "Garden of the Month (Honorary)" award for December.

"The grounds at City Hall (90th and Sullivan) are the most beautifully landscaped of any in this area," the accompanying letter from Mrs. Millie Dunow, an official of the club, explained. "This accomplishment is in great part due to the efforts of one man."

That man is August Conci, Mrs. Dunow added.

Conci's first assignment was 29 years ago—in 1940—when the city council handed him the Marchbanks Park project on a contract that paid him the handsome sum of $50 per month. The park was opened to the public less than a year later.

Cost of the 3200 trees and shrubs, purchased from a small nursery at Rockaway Beach in Pacifica, was $320 Conci recalls.

Conci's offices were in the old City Hall at 75 Wellington Avenue in those days.

An "oldtime" Daly City resident noted that the office was so small "you had to back into come out forward."

But the cramped quarters didn't bother Conci, he had all outdoors to move around in when he was working.

Other contract jobs were given Conci, including the impressive War Memorial Building on Mission street; Westlake Park with its myriad obstacles to overcome before painting could begin, and; the Alemany Avenue tree and shrub planting project that transformed the drab thoroughfare into a pleasant parkway between Junipero Serra and Skyline Bouelvards.

In 1956 the city council approved a Superintendent of Parks position under State examination. Conci passed the test with flying colors and was named to the post.

He no longer lived from project-to-proejct on a shakey contract and began to "experiment" with various plantings.

One of the first "big" projects he jumped into was the Westmoor Park landscaping, followed by the planting of palm trees along the old San Francisco No. 40 trolley line down Mission street. Each year these palms are wrapped in colorful Christmas decorations and delight motorists and shoppers in the area.

The palm trees were shipped from Amarillo, Texas at Conci's insistence, because he felt they were best suited to Daly City's unique weather and would withstand any severe change in climate.

His biggest job began with the construction of the new city hall some four years ago.

"To me this building of great splendor had to be dressed like a beautiful lady," Conci said. "We bid on the contract to dress this lovely lady ... and we won."

Lowest "outside" bid received by the city was some $60,000. Conci said he could do it for under $28,000.

He "cut no corners" on the project and made the entire area completedy automated. One man now maintains the entire grounds with the aid of a time-controlled water sprinkling system.

Whats' next for the city's top gardener now that he's won praise from the city council, congratulations from the public and recognition from his fellow gardening enthusiasts?

"I intend to make the Serramonte median strip (divider island) one of the finest landscaped streets in the state. And after my department finishes that we will move on to complete the 25 acre Serramonte Park," Conci matter-of-factly said.

Undoubtedly by the time these two major projects reach completion, Conci and his seven-man crew will be raring to get started on yet another project handed down by the City Fathers.

Jefferson District's P-TA Council Is Asked To Review 'Philosophy'

The Jefferson Elementary School District P-TA council will be asked to aid the school board in reviewing the district's educational philosophy.

A preliminary philosophy was developed last year by two committees within the administration. They prepared outlines in the three areas of (1) general philosophy (2) broad objectives and (3) program guidelines.

It is hoped that extensive citizen involvement can be aroused through the P-TA council.

In other business, the trustees:

Allowed that in-depth questions requiring extensive research for the answers should be submitted to the superintendent in writing.

Received a code of conduct and procedures from resident Gordon Cartwright for audience participation for possible use by the board. It is similar to one used by the Jefferson High School District.

Agreed to put the matter of salary negotiations on an upcoming agenda. Specifically to discuss the relationship between how the teacher's settlements affect superintendent salaries.

Accepted the gift of an A.B. Dick Master-Transparency maker and $200 to be accumulated toward the purchase of a piece of audio visual equipment to be shared by the Olympia and Fernando Rivera Schools from the Olympia-Rivera P-TA.

Were informed by Superintendent Frank Greenwood that the assistant district attorney has ruled the November 3 special meeting a legal session.

Approved purchase orders amounting to $14,925.89 and warrants of $49,016.95.

Hired one full-time teacher, five substitutes, a noonyard supervisor and a substitute bus driver.

Heap A Sleigh With Peppermint Chocolate And Cheesecake Cookies

Both family and friends alike will delight in a miniature sleigh heaping with Peppermint Chocolate and Cheesecake Cookies, accompanied by bright, shiny candy canes and cool, refreshing eggnog.

Cheesecake is an all-time favorite, and the new bite-size version is no exception. Made with real butter, fresh whole milk and cream cheese, this festive Cheesecake Cookie boasts the crunchy goodness of pecans and the cheery flavor of currant jelly.

Here's another happy surprise . . . a buttery-rich chocolate cookie peaked with light and crispy pale pink peppermint meringue. It's as pretty to look at as it is good to eat.

Now toast the season, and your holiday baking, with glasses of creamy rich eggnog. For an added twist, mix in a little coffee powder and wow . . . what a super sipper!

PEPPERMINT CHOCOLATE COOKIES

COOKIE DOUGH:
- 2 cups regular all-purpose flour
- ½ cup cocoa
- ¼ cup sugar
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon baking powder
- ¾ cup (1½ sticks) butter
- 2 egg yolks, slightly beaten
- 1-third cup milk
- 1 teaspoon vanilla

PEPPERMINT MERINGUE:
- 2 egg whites
- ¼ teaspoon cream of tartar
- ¼ cup sugar
- ½ teaspoon vanilla
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 1 cup crushed peppermint stick candy
- Red food color

Into a bowl sift together flour, cocoa, sugar, salt and baking powder. Cut in butter until mixture resembles cornmeal. Combine egg yolks, milk and vanilla and add to flour mixture. Stir only enough to form a soft dough. Shape cookie dough into balls 1-inch in diameter and place on baking sheet; flatten with bottom of glass dipped in granulated sugar. To make Meringue: Beat egg whites until frothy. Add cream of tartar and beat until soft peaks form. Add sugar, 1 tablespoon at a time, and continue beating until very stiff peaks form. Add vanilla and salt. Fold in candy and food color. Top each cookie with a teaspoon of meringue. Bake in a preheated 325-degree oven 15-18 minutes. Yield: 3½ dozen.

CHEESECAKE COOKIES

CRUST:
- ¼ cup (½ stick) butter
- 1-third cup firmly packed light brown sugar
- 1 cup regular all-purpose flour
- ½ cup chopped pecans
- ¼ cup currant jelly

FILLING:
- 1 package (8 oz.) cream cheese
- ¼ cup sugar
- 1 egg
- 2 tablespoons milk
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- ½ teaspoon vanila

In a mixing bowl cream butter; add brown sugar and flour. Blend until mixture resembles cornmeal. Stir in pecans. Reserve 1 cup of mixture for topping. Press remainder onto bottom of 8-inch square baking pan. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven 15 minutes. Cool; spread jelly over crust. To prepare Filling: In a mixing bowl beat together cream cheese and sugar. Beat in egg and milk. Add lemon juice and vanilla. Turn into pan; sprinkle with reserved crumb mixture. Bake 30 minutes. Cool on wire rack; cut into bars or squares. Yield: approx. 2½ dozen.

COFFEE EGGNOG
- 4 cups dairy eggnog
- 2 tablespoons instant coffee powder
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1 cup whipping cream, whipped
- Nutmeg

In a mixing bowl beat together eggnog, coffee powder and vanilla. Chill. Fold all but 4 tablespoons of whipped cream into coffee mixture. Pour eggnog into cups. Top with remaining whipped cream. Sprinkle with nutmeg. Serve immediately. Yield: approx. 5 cups.

Casserole Can Become A Favorite

By the end of the week, most of us can feel the food budget pinch. Instead of fresh meat, frequently we have to fill in with staples on our kitchen shelves. One staple that most of us have, mainly because of its nutritious value, and just because it is so versatile, is tuna.

A well-seasoned and attractively served casserole can become a family favorite. In this tuna-chip casserole for example, the ingredients are staples and can be found on most kitchen shelves. The two basic ingredients are family favorites — tuna and potato chips.

POTATO CHIP TUNA TETRAZZINI
- 1 tablespoon butter or margarine
- ¼ cup chopped onion
- 1 (10½-ounce) can condensed cream of mushroom soup, undiluted
- 1 (6-ounce) can or ⅔ cup evaporated milk
- ⅓ cup grated sharp Cheddar cheese
- 1 (6½-7 ounce) can tuna, drained
- 1 (3-ounce) can sliced mushrooms, drained
- ½ cup chopped ripe olives (optional)
- 2 teaspoons lemon juice
- ¼ cup chopped pimiento
- 3 cups crushed potato chips
- Grated Parmesan cheese
- Paprika

Melt butter or margarine in pan. Add onions, and saute until tender. Add soup, milk, sharp cheese, and heat through, stirring constantly. Add tuna, mushrooms, olives if using, lemon juice, and pimiento. Pour a thick layer of crushed potato chips into bottom of 2-quart casserole. Divide the tuna-mixture into thirds and pour the first third over bottom layer of chips. Add another layer of crushed chips, another layer of tuna, then chips and repeat until finished. Sprinkle top of casserole with grated cheese and paprika. Bake in a preheated 375-degree oven for 20 to 25 minutes. Serve while piping hot. Makes 8 servings.

Pizza-Filled Franks For Hungry Kids

If there are three foods that you can be sure you won't have to sell the kids on, it's hamburgers, hot dogs and potato chips. They are standard classics with most kids.

You may be called on, Mom, to supply the vitals for the hungry gang. Pizza Filled Franks have the flavor and tomatoes of pizza and tucked inside are potato chips that will melt with cheese. Another good thing about this recipe, other than being different, it can be made hours ahead—as a matter of fact, it can be made in early morning and refrigerated until broiling time.

It is a good idea for outdoor grill cooking too, and so much fun for the younger set to warm up around glowing coals waiting for the chow. Serve hot spicy baked beans, assorted relishes and cupcakes for dessert, and hot chocolate.

Pizza Filled Franks
- 8 frankfurters
- ¼ cup potato chip crumbs
- 2 tablespoons grated American cheese
- 1 small tomato, chopped fine
- ¼ teaspoon oregano
- Dash garlic powder
- Dash pepper
- 8 strips bacon

Score frankfurters in half lengthwise, being careful not to cut all the way through. Combine potato chip crumbs, cheese, tomato and seasonings, blending well. Fill frankfurters with mixture, pressing into ends but not packing too firmly. Wrap bacon strips around filled frankfurters, spiral fashion. Secure with toothpicks. Place frankfurters crosswise over grill wires. Broil over hot coals on barbecue grill or broil in broiler, turning frequently, until bacon is brown and crispy enough. (For browner bacon it may be partially pre-broiled before wrapping around franks). Makes 8 servings.

Try Sausage Swifty For Easy Meal

In that breathless half hour when supper must be prepared and you just got home from that exhausting ritual known as Christmas shopping, be glad you have the ingredients for Sausage Swifty on hand.

This meal in a skillet requires very little preparation time, and while it cooks you can unwind a bit and fix the rest of the menu.

Sausage Swifty has two kinds of sausages — sweet Italian and links. Brown the sausage and simmer with rice, beef broth and mushrooms in convenient canned tomato sauce with onions. This handy product, introduced about a year ago, means you hardly ever have to cry over onion chopping any more.

There's high quality nutrition in this easy, thrifty skillet dish, too. The sausage provides protein, and the rice, peas and other ingredients contribute essential minerals and vitamins. Some ingredients like tomato sauce with onions enhance the flavor and eye appeal of low-budget dishes without increasing cost per serving to any appreciable degree.

Serve Sausage Thrifty with a fruited gelatin salad (make this in the morning while you straighten up the kitchen), breadsticks, ice cream and fruit cake.

SAUSAGE SWIFTY

½ pound sweet Italian sausage, casing removed ½ pound skinless pork sausage links
2 cans (8 ounces each) tomato sauce with onions
2 cups beef broth
1 cup uncooked regular rice
1 can (4 ounces) sliced mushrooms or mushroom stems and pieces, undrained
1 clove garlic, crushed
½ teaspoon salt
1 package (10 ounces) frozen peas

Cut sausages into 1-inch pieces. In skillet brown sausage; pour off fat. Add remaining ingredients except peas. Simmer, covered, 20 to 25 minutes. Add peas; cook 10 minutes more. Stir lightly before serving. Makes 6 servings.

Lunch Box Necessity Is Handy

With or without additions this cheese spread is sure to become a lunch box necessity. This basic recipe from Dairy Council of California combines both the nutrition and storing capacities of cheese to make it one of the handiest foods in the refrigerator.

This "All Purpose Cheese Spread" is not only one of the best lunch box sandwich fillings, but it can also be drafted for family meal time use too. Hot, open face sandwiches can be made simply by spreading buns with butter; adding crumbled cooked ground beef to the cheese spread and spreading each bun half generously with this mixture. Place the bun halves under a broiler or in a hot oven (400 F.) until bubbly. Thus, you can make a quick and easy Saturday lunch or an emergency weekday dinner out of the cheese spread stored in the refrigerator. Don't forget the possibilities of its use as a cheese and crackers combination and as appetizers.

ALL PURPOSE CHEESE SPREAD

1 small can evaporated milk
½ lb. (2 cups) mild Cheddar cheese, grated
½ cup butter
1 teaspoon onion, grated
½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
¼ teaspoon garlic salt
¼ teaspoon paprika

Place ingredients in heavy saucepan. Stir over low heat until cheese is melted and all ingredients are blended. Cool. Store in covered container in refrigerator. Makes about 1½ cups spread.

Sandwich filling variations: Mix into cheese spread — crisp bacon; ground ham, bologna, or frankfurters; chopped red or green pepper; finely diced celery; shredded carrots and chopped raisins. Continue the list with your own imagination, employing the family's favorite flavors. Vary the bread you use with this spread and it will remain the most requested item on the lunch box menu.

Athletes Presented Awards

Fathers and sons gathered in Westmoor's cafeteria November 25 for Westmoor's annual Fall Block W Awards Banquet.

Besides the many Block W awards which were handed out, several special awards and MVP trophies were also presented.

Accepting the MVP trophy for the co-champion C's basketball team was their leading scorer throughout the season, Ted Grey, while Bob Fidler received the trophy for the championship D's squads.

Cross-country coach Richard Connors awarded Kevin LaRock as the outstanding varsity runner while Lindsey Anderson copped the trophy for the championship frosh-soph harriers.

Outstanding player for this year's freshman football team was their aggressive two way tackle Leo Biederman.

In an unusual ritual frosh-soph football coaches, Marc Mallinger and Harry Weidner, let their team elect their most outstanding player. From a field of seven nominated, hard-hitting linebacker Gary Sangervasi took home the MVP trophy.

Triumphant Year For Terra Nova Coach Al Figone

By LE PACINI

TERRA NOVA COACH Al Figone completed a rare parlay recently when he brought his Tiger freshman football squad in undefeated. That triumph concluded a year most coaches would give a year's extra pay for. In June baseball coach Figone saw his team take the Central Coast Section baseball championship, which is as far as an NPL baseball team can go, and which, in fact, was the furthest any NPL baseball team had ever gone. Now football coach Figone comes in with Terra Nova's first football title of any kind, but refuses to take credit for it.

"Much of whatever we accomplished this year can be credited to Joe Racanelli and his staff," says Figone of the leader of the Pacifica Dolphins, the title-bearing Pop Warner Leaguers, who, adds Figone in searching for the proper adjective, "were absolutely brilliant."

What Figone says can't be attributed to false modesty, for it's a fact that last year's undefeated Dolphins moved in on the Tiger freshman squad virtually en masse.

What Figone and his assistant coach Dan Hartman can, however, accept legitimate credit for was their ability to take full advantage of the material they were given. And what they were given was considerable.

"THESE KIDS," says Figone, "had the three qualities a coach needs to win with in any sport at any level — talent, intelligence, and desire."

As an example, Figone installed some 75 offensive plays, and Hartman added some unusual defensive wrinkles, which meant, says Figone, that "they had about 100 things to remember," yet they rarely aborted a play.

"For freshmen we always use basically varsity offenses and defenses," says Figone, "and rarely add anything to that. But with these kids, we couldn't resist it. Not that we got fancy."

"For instance, we had only one reverse play and didn't install that until the next to last game. To be able to assimilate that many offensive plays is almost unheard of at this level. Yet they did it; and I have no doubt that we could have added even more plays and gotten fancy, and that they would have been able to handle it. Their ability to assimilate was tremendous, limitless."

There wasn't a team in the league this year which challenged the Tiger cubs. Closest score came against last place Jefferson on the last game of the season, and that was 20-0 and followed the "big" game the week before against closest challenger Westmoor, whom they licked handily, 46-14.

"ACTUALLY," says Figone, "I told them they stunk against Jeff, and relatively speaking, they did. Of course, there was bound to be a let-down after the Westmoor game. Actually, playing a lousy game and still winning handily is the mark of a champ. And these kids have it. They have that morale that enables a team to play badly and still come up with a win."

The factor which made the little Tigers overwhelming rather than just darned good was a squat running back named Lou Sanchez, a South American who has been in the country only a few years but who is one of those intelligent ones Figone talks of, already speaking excellent English, getting good grades and who, testifies Figone, "just never misses an assignment."

Statistics weren't kept in three of the nine games the kids played, but in the six in which stats were maintained, Sanchez was in on 90 per cent of the offensive plays, gained close to 2000 yards rushing for an average of 10 yards a carry, and scored 19 TDs. And freshman play only 10-minute quarters!

Sanchez has all the God-given qualities a top runner must have: tremendous balance, quick start, and the instincts in knowing when to cut, when to stop and start, how to use blockers, how to find those holes.

"Sanchez starts so fast," says Figone, that he sometimes drew in-motion penalties because the quarterback wouldn't have the ball in his hand when Lou started moving. In other words, say the count was on two. On two, Lou would go, but the ball wouldn't have yet left the center's hands."

When a team wins as often and as convincingly as Terra Nova did, it can't be a one-man team. Jim Gonzalez was perhaps as effective a linebacker as Sanchez was a running back. Split end-defensive halfback Gary Pruitt was another standout, as were Joe Racanelli (Tony's nephew and another of the boys who "knew all their assignments"), Steve McDonald, John Soloman, Dave McKown, John Skog, Andy Nielson, Bob Pipkin, Paul Gates, Ron Mendez, Rick Colton and many others.

CERTAINLY NOT THE LEAST of the contributors was coach Hartman, a first-year teacher from Eastern Washington State College who, says Figone, "did an outstanding job."

Although he matriculated up north, Hartman is a local boy familiar with what it takes to win in the NPL, having been on some of the great Westmoor teams in the mid-'60s as a two-time All NPL lineman, NPL Lineman of the Year, twice an NPL unlimited wrestling champ, and the league's best discus tosser.

Any coach will tell you that there is such a thing as winners and losers, aside from any talent consideration; that winning becomes easier as it becomes traditional, that winning is more an attitude than an ability, an instinct, perhaps, more than something which can be learned.

Figone, Hartman, and now an entire freshman football team have proven themselves winners. Perhaps this is the beginning of something at Terra Nova.

MISCELLANY — San Francisco State may have had its first losing season since 1952, but it got into the record books by using seven quarterbacks this year . . . and if that isn't a record, it should be.

For those who don't think Willie McCovey deserved to be the National League's MVP this year, consider, despite his admittedly obvious hitting statistics, that he batted .385 when runners were on in scoring position. And if you were one of those struck with the illusion that none of the other Giants hit in the clutch, consider further that with men in scoring position Ron Hunt hit .353, Jim Davenport .338 and Willie Mays .301 — all much higher than their seasonal BA's. The only trouble was that the Giants didn't get enough men in scoring position to exploit the clutch talents of McCovey, Hunt, Davenport and Mays.

Bet you didn't know that our own Charley Kruger is tied with several others for the most lifetime safeties in pro football — three! . . . That Wilt Chamberlain is fifth in the NBA in total lifetime free throws (don't panic — he's also first in attempts) . . . Or that Beer (Tom, Denver) and Winegardner (Jim, Bears) are tight ends.

LOCAL NOTE — Mike Walitsch and Chuck Notmeyer, members of the Pacifica Bar Bell Club, recently took top awards in their respective weight divisions in an AAU Junior Olympic weightlifting meet held in Pacifica. Walitsch, 14, lifted 340 pounds in the 105-pound division, while Notmeyer, 16, lifted 465 pounds as a 123-pound lifter. Four junior Olympic California records were broken at the meet. Walitsch and Notmeyer are both Oceana students.

NPL Coaches Rate Jefferson High Indians Cage Favorite

Change Seen: No Title For South S.F.

By JERRY LITTRELL
Post Sports Writer

North Peninsula League experts seem to feel that, like the just-completed football chase, the 1969 basketball title will rest at another school besides South San Francisco.

For the first time in eons, Bill Purcell's mighty Warriors are not favored to cop the cage crown — that honor going by a coaches' vote of 7-1 to Jefferson's Indians. If that comes true, it will be the first time since 1964 that the fast-breaking SSF quintet has not prevailed.

The story this year lies with the Indians, who completed their finest year in history last season with a 24-2 record, only to have both losses come in NPL play (one each at the hands of SSF and Westmoor) with the resulting damage being a second-place league finish.

Jeff has five veterans returning from last year's squad including All-NPL front-liner Pinky Smith, who would be the best center in the league, if not the Peninsula, except for the fact that he has been moved to forward this year. The reason for that move is 6-7 senior Earl Wilson who has slimmed down and appears ready to control the boards.

With 6-5 Smith and Wilson up front not many teams will go to the boards with them. The other starting forward is Dale Conway, Jeff's seventh man last year, with Tony Moss and John Burrus, who more top subs, manning the guard positions.

This year it's not so much what the Warriors have as what they don't have — height or muscle. With the departure of three-year mainstay center Steve Venters, forwards Dick Young and Bob Collins and three top subs and the summer-time transfer of two 6-5 juniors and a 6-3 sophomore to parts unknown, the Warriors are left with just one experienced player over 6-0.

The Warriors best player is Mike Larios, a 6-1 swingman who was a Post All-County selection last year, who has given every indication he will live up to his blooming reputation. Larios, who could be the smoothest on the Peninsula, will start up front with a 5-10 forward, Jim Housman, assisted by two of the world's smallest guards in 5-7 Tom Noxon and 5-8 Gene Mackey and anchored by Andy Alexander, a 6-5 center who had limited playing time last year.

The Warriors' strengths this year appear to be speed from the guards and scoring from Larios. But the feared SSF fast-break of years gone by may never materialize if they can't get the rebounds.

Westmoor's Rams appear to have the best shot at upsetting Jefferson, at least the first time around, with mid-year graduate Jim Lewis (6-2) heading the returnees. Center Mike Reynolds, who has ballooned up to 155 pounds on his 6-4 frame, can score while junior Jeff Orlich, a powerful 6-2, 200-pound forward, will join Lewis for the needed board strength.

El Camino, while not expected to produce a championship squad, does have the talent to put things together on certain nights and will probably cause more than one team problems. Rene Herrerias' Colts will have 6-5 junior center Gary Cruise back from last year's starting quintet along with forward Pete Saco. Senior guard Tom Buckley, after a slow junior year, could give the Colts the much-needed outside shooting.

Terra Nova will have one of its biggest squads in many seasons but just how far size will carry them is unknown. Junior Bud Papadakis, who got some varsity time in last year, will be a 6-4 center-forward along with 6-5 Mark Champneys and 6-4 Jeff Wellmeyer.

The NPL will have a new league school this year in Serramonte, which has no home gymnasium and an all-junior team. A transfer from Mission High School in San Francisco, Dan Lucero, might prove helpful, though, as will 6-4 Dan Boice and 6-2 Todd Stevenson, the leading sophomore scorer.

Oceana had the best sophomore team in the school's history last season and with three varsity players back the Sharks could pull an upset or two along the way. Scott Alves, Steve Crocenzi and Steve Pointer head the veterans while juniors Tom Harper and Terry Johnston should fill in the gaps.

Half Moon Bay has last year's leading scorer, Larry Gunning, back as well as 6-5 center Leon Logan along with guard Jim Emery, who plays everything for the Cougars.

Here is the way the coaches have picked the NPL race for 1969:

1. Jefferson, 2. Westmoor, 3. South San Francisco, 4. El Camino, 5. Terra Nova, 6. Oceana, 7. Half Moon Bay, 8. Serramonte.

Santa Saw Post, Shows Up In Bruno

Santa Claus contacted the San Bruno Chamber of Commerce.

"It was a real cliff-hanger up to the last hour," Chamber Manager Kit Menkin explained. "Just when it looked like the good children of San Bruno wouldn't be rewarded this year, Santa Claus came through."

Merchants's Division President Jim Faverman had instructed Chamber Manager Menkin to contact Santa Claus before November 28 — "or you'll have to impersonate him."

The chamber manager tried to reach Santa Claus by telephone, but Pacific Telephone Manager Jack Head told him the heavy snows at the North Pole had disrupted service.

An appeal was released in last week's Post for Santa Claus — or one of his friends — to contact the San Bruno Chamber of Commerce.

"I had a five-minute conversation with him on the telephone," Menkin said. "When the operator called and said there was a collect call for me from the North Pole, I first thought it was Jim Faverman playing a joke."

According to Menkin, Santa Claus didn't sound too happy.

"No ho-ho-ho's, strictly business," he explained. "It seems Santa is behind in his toy gathering and what with the expanding world population, his job is getting harder each year. He also told me he was having a rough time getting more elves interested in Christmas work. All they wanted to do was watch television or go to California where the weather is warmer and there is more excitement in California than at the North Pole."

Santa Claus also complained about the high cost of living and taxes; citing the high property and payroll taxes he had to pay to the government. It was spoiling his Christmas, he said.

Santa Claus also complained that while he was glad to find so many good boys and girls to deliver presents to, very few of them leave him a glass of milk and cookies anymore.

"Delivering these Christmas gifts in one night to all over the world is hard work," he told Menkin. "No one appreciates me any more. I'm just a figment of their imagination, they think."

Santa Claus does like San Bruno. He sent his friend Mickey McDaniels as his representative on Saturday to say hello to the children, hear what they want for Christmas, and hand out free candy canes.

On Friday and Saturday afternoons, and every day starting December 15, Santa's other friend, Angie Getas, who is the director of athletics at Treasure Island, will visit San Mateo Avenue and Mills Park in San Bruno.

December 20 Santa's special friend, Koo-koo the Klown, will visit all the children on San Mateo Avenue and help Santa give out free balloons and candy.

2 Pacifica Girls Testify At Trial

talked, the witness said, she could see policemen in the area but did not realize that they were looking for the escapees.

Lopez finally told them, the girl told the jury, that they were escapees and begged them to get them some clothes and food. Miss Chew said she told him they could not do that and she and her friend left the school. When she got home, the witness said, she told her brother what had happened and he insisted that she return to the school and tell the policemen there, which she did. By that time, however, Lopez and Galindo had disappeared.

Susan told essentially the same story. Both girls described Lopez as "courteous" during the encounter.

Browning told the jury that he will show that Lopez and Galindo, after separating from the other escapees, made ther way "cautiously" toward the west. After the encounter with the girls, he said, the defendants spent the night in a toolshed at the rear of the Pedersen home. They broke into the house the next morning, Browning said, to get food, money and clothing, and to call a taxi to complete their escape.

Browning told the jurors that Mrs. Pederson is in "poor health" in Peninsula Hospital and will be unable to testify. She never recovered from the effects of the beating.

The first witness yesterday was Charles Pedersen, son of the victims. He identified clothing the suspects were wearing at the time of their capture as belonging to his father.

George Paganucci, a San Francisco sheriff's deputy, told of the blanket-rope escape from the jail, an escape that has led to demands that something be done to improve security at the jail.

Mrs. Clair Pryor of 160 Winona Avenue, whose alertness led to the capture of the desperadoes, told the jury that when she arrived home at 8 a.m. June 20 after taking her daughter for swimming lessons, she looked across the street toward the Pedersen home and "saw a man sitting at Captain Pedersen's desk." She later identified Galindo as that man.

Mrs. Pryor, who said she had been warned by police the previous afternoon that the escapees might be in the area, telephoned the Pedersen home. Mrs. Pedersen answered.

"Her voice was very strange," Mrs. Pryor said.

A voice she later identified as Lopez' then came on the phone, she testified. He said they were friends of Pedersen, a retired sea captain, and that he was sick. They needed transportation, he said, to take him to his doctor in San Francisco.

Mrs. Pryor said she knew Pedersen's doctor was in Pacifica, not San Francisco. She suggested to Lopez that he call a cab, then hung up and telephoned the police station immediately.

Other witnesses included Capt. Oscar R. Shipley and Sgt. Anthony L. Guardino of the Pacifica Police Department, and Sheriff's Deputy John L. Cox, who told of going to the house, intercepting the cab that had been called by Lopez, and capturing the suspects under the Pedersen home.

Jerry W. Chisum, a state criminalist, said blood spatters found on the discarded coveralls in the Pedersen home were human blood. He said the pattern of the spatters was typical of that found in beating cases.

joint city-board meeting last week.

The new plan calls for the seawall to be completed in 1972.

Last October, the Board notified the city that new "tension cracks" had been spotted on the face of the slope and suggested the work proceed at a faster pace. They asked to meet with the city and set up the now-approved time schedule.

It was the revamped schedule that was approved last week, Rowe said.

The city no longer dumps in the threatened area.

For some ten years dumping has gradually moved back from the ocean frontage and now is progressing in an area some 400 feet back from the shoreline.

S.S.F. Woman Found Dead

A 44-year-old South San Francisco woman was found dead in her apartment on November 24. An empty pill container was found in a wastebasket.

Police said Gertrude Louise Finkelday may have been dead for at least 24 hours.

She was last seen last Wednesday, although a friend had talked to the victim on the phone Sunday.

Officers were dispatched to Apartment 4 at 516 Mayfair Avenue at 7:40 o'clock. South San Francisco Fire Department rescue squad already was on the scene.

Attempts at administering oxygen failed, police said.

According to officers, a friend of the victim, Cecil Dale Stovall, 48, of 220 Wildwood Drive, became worried when he attempted to contact the victim and was unable to do so. Stovall called police.

The victim was found in her night clothes, lying on the couch.

Bruno Boy Hit By Truck

A 12-year-old San Bruno boy riding in a shopping cart was struck by a pickup truck on Nov. 25. He is being treated for possible neck and head injuries at Peninsula Hospital.

Police said Stephen Boyer, of 165 Santa Domingo, was hit when the shopping car rolled out into the street at South San Anselmo near San Marco.

Boyer and his younger brother, Frederick, 9, were delivering newspapers. Frederick was pushing the cart and lost control.

As the cart rolled out into the street, a pickup truck driven by Magne Ludvik Veimoen, 29, of 126 San Felipe Avenue, hit the cart, police said.

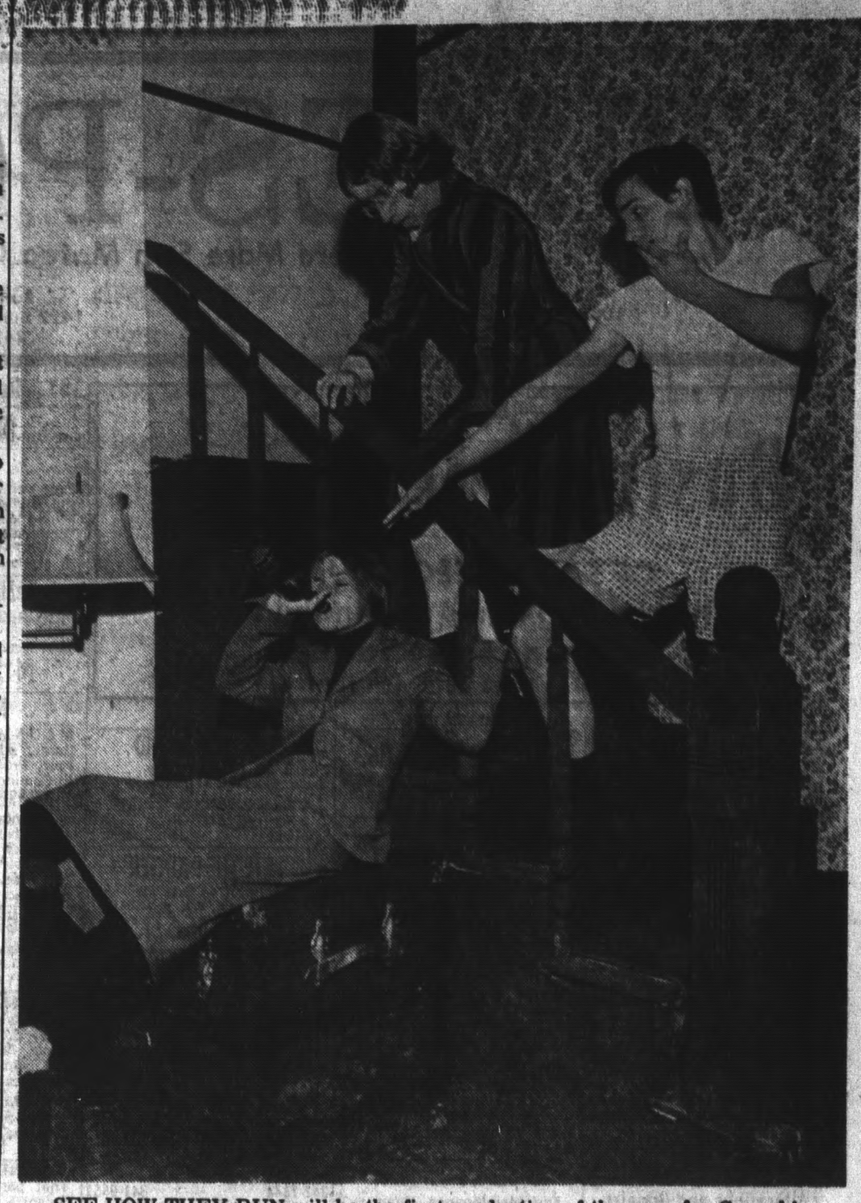
Christmas Seals Are In Mails -$135,000 Goal

San Mateo County's 1969 Christmas Seal campaign is underway.

Newspaper executive Walter A. Jack, heading the drive for the second straight year, announced today that nearly 200,000 sets of Seals have gone into the mails to homes and businesses throughout the county.

The campaign goal, he said, has been set at $135,000 — approximately $15,000 more than was raised in 1968.

All contributions will go toward financing the work of the Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association of San Mateo County to combat TB, emphysema, chronic bronchitis, asthma and other breathing illnesses, as well as to accelerate projects in such fields as cigarette smoking and air pollution, Jack explained.



SEE HOW THEY RUN will be the first production of the year for Capuchino High School players. Directed by Ric Nazarenus, new drama teacher, the play is set for December 5 and 6 at 8 p.m. at Capuchino Auditorium. Rehearsing are, left to right, Patti Clayton, Leonard Sanford and Charlie Caudill. Tickets are on sale at $1 for adults, 75 cents for students with student body cards and 25 cents for children under 12. They may be purchased at the door or from Diane Selph or Tati Gay at Capuchino. Bruno Pair Die In Crash

A San Bruno man and wife and two other persons were killed Sunday when a car pulling a trailer crossed the center line on Interstate 80 and was struck broadside by another auto, according to the California Highway Patrol.

Killed were:

Ray Morrison, 49, of San Bruno.

Gladys Morrison, 49, his wife.

Doris Morrison, 39, his sister-in-law, of Antioch.

Warren Sandall, 57, Orland, driver of the other car.

Suffering major injuries and hospitalized were Bobby C. Morrison, 42 Antioch, driver of the car pulling the trailer, and husband of Doris Morrison; and Lorena Sandal of Orland, wife of the other victim. The injured were taken to Placer General Hospital in Auburn.

The Highway Patrol said the Morrison car was headed west when it went out of control in the Sierra area between Auburn and Truckee.

Officers said Ray Morrison, his wife, Gladys, and sister-in-law, Doris Morrison, 39, of Antioch, were killed instantly.

All three victims were riding in the back seat of a vehicle driven by Bobby C. Morrison, 52, husband of Doris. Also in the front seat of the car was Kenneth and Sandra Morrison, son and daughter-in-law of Ray Morrison.

According to the CHP, the Morrison vehicle going westbound on Interstate 80, just east of Alta, was towing a trailer which held another car.

Officers reported the vehicle apparently went out of control, veered into the eastbound lane and was struck broadside by a vehicle driven by Sandall. Sandall died at 2:20 a.m. today of his injuries.

Bobby C. Morrison suffered a broken neck. Kenneth and Sandra Morrison are being treated for moderate injuries at Placer General Hospital, Auburn. Sandall's wife, Lorena, 51, also is being treated for injuries.

Room In D.C. Gutted

A fire that gutted the interior of a home at Cortez Avenue and The Crossways in Miramar Saturday morning killed the family dog and delayed its report to Half Moon Bay firemen, who were notified by a neighbor.

Mrs. Sophia Gilley, the resident, told firemen she had prepared coffee and gone back to bed, but arose again when she smelled smoke. She saw the fire and attempted to call firemen but was dirven away from the telephone when her hair was singed by the heat. Her teen-age daughter already had evacuated, firemen learned.

Firemen said they got a call from the operator with incomplete location, but then the call came from the neighbor at 7:40 a.m. and they were on their way.

They found the house, built only of plywood paneling, completely ablaze, with flames shooting out the front windows, they said.

The firefighters had the flames under control in about ten minutes. Once inside, they found the family's pet terrier in a rear bedroom, dead from the heat and gases.

Firemen estimated damage at $10,000. Deputy Chief Larry Centoni said the origin has been traced to the kitchen, where it might have been started from a cigarette butt in a trashbox next to the stove.

Fire raged through the bedroom of a Daly City home Saturday afternoon, causing an estimated $13,000 damage.

Firemen reported they are continuing to investigate the blaze at 447 Northaven Drive, that started in the rear bedroom and extended into a hallway and a bathroom, as well as the attic.

Employes To Get Insurance

Full time employes (plus councilmen) of the City of South San Francisco will recieve $5,000 in life insurance free.

Following approval by the councilmen Monday night, the added benefit should become effective as of Jan. 1, 1970.

Manufacturer's Life Insurance Company submitted the low bid as carrier. Premiums will cost the city $8,500 annually.

Asst. City Mgr. Larry Ross originally submitted two proposals to the councilmen.

The second proposal was to obtain additional life insurance based on the employe's salary range. Premiums on this coverage would have nearly doubled.

Daly City Youngster Is Found Dead In His Crib

Michael Roukes, the 5-day-old son of Mr. and Mrs. James Roukes of 85 Fairlawn Avenue, Daly City, was found dead in his crib by his mother Thurseay morning, the coroner's office reported today.

According to coroner's investigators, the infant's mother had fed him at 8:35 a.m. When she went to his crib at 11 a.m. she found him face up, not breathing. A neighbor tried mouth to mouth resuscitation before the arrival of a fire department resuscitation squad. The child was pronounced dead on arrival at Mary's Help Hospital. Funeral services are pending.
